Democrats May Ask Resignation of Irwin

Meeting of "Alfred E. Smith for President Club" to be Held at City Hall Tonight—All Democrats Invited—Irwin's Desertion of Smith for McAdoo Causes Dissatisfaction.

The Ulster County Alfred E. Smith for President Club will hold a special meeting at the city hall at 8 o'clock tonight under a call issued by James Jenkins, president, and James Coughlin, secretary, which reads that "All Democrats from the city and county are urged to request the resignation of Roscoe Irwin, who has deserted the Smith for McAdoo, and to elect a new president."

The club for which the call for a special meeting has been issued is known locally as the Smith Club No. 2, because it was the first of the Smith Clubs organized here—Club No. 1 is headed by Roscoe Irwin, the chairman of the Democratic county committee.

Irwin Still Heads Smith Club.

No meeting of the No. 2 Club has been held since it was organized, and although Roscoe Irwin has been contentedly voting for McAdoo since the election in the Democratic National Convention, he remains at the head of the Smith for President Club No. 2.

Mar Ask Irwin to Resign. The important business at the meeting of the Smith Club No. 1 is understood to be a request for Irwin's resignation as chairman of the Democratic county committee, to which he himself elected last fall on the ground that Judge Jenkins, the former chairman, was not getting jobs for deserving Democrats.

While the sensible reason for the change was that Irwin would "show results" which he claimed Judge Jenkins had not been able to produce, local Democrats regarded the move as a part of the Irwin plan to rebuild the Smith organization in order to place his candidacy for the governor in the hands of the Smith family for many months preceding the election of delegates.

Smith Forces Honored Irwin.

Irwin's desertion of Smith seemed the more surprising in view of the honor conferred on Irwin on the Sunday day of the convention by the Smith forces as a committee to interview the Nevada delegates for Smith. One of the other honors which Irwin bore at the hands of the Smith forces. The latest honor was no more than Tuesday night when he was selected to cast New York's twenty-fifth ballot. At that time it was announced that Irwin was a strong supporter of Smith and that Smith would receive the nomination.

Provided Irwin With Jobs.

Besides the honors mentioned above were bestowed on Mr. Irwin by the Smith forces, he was allowed to name Supervisor Charles Van Etten of the Third ward as one of the delegates at arms of the convention, and also procuring a similar position for Joseph Pessenar, formerly of Kingston.

Irwin's Effect on Nevada.

Up to this time, the Nevada delegation of six has not changed from McAdoo, for whom it has voted from the beginning.

Democrats With Memories.

Local Democratic leaders who have been active in helping build up the Irwin machine for the past two years in anticipation of the Irwin candidacy for justice of the supreme court in 1926, discussed among themselves a meeting held in Kingston some time ago at which a resolution was introduced instructing delegates from this district to vote for Smith.

They Want to Know.

They say Irwin refused to enter into the resolution, but promised that he would stick by Smith, so they are anxious to interview him as to why he changed from Smith to McAdoo, why he waited until the thirteenth ballot to switch from his own state governor to McAdoo and why he waited until Bryan had succeeded in switching the Mississippi delegation to McAdoo and a McAdoo demonstration was in progress before deserting Smith.

They're Sure to Ask Him.

There are a great many "Why's" and "How's" which local Democrats would like to ask Irwin, and also a number of "Did you's" and "Didn't you's." It

New Theatre On Broadway

Architect Thomas P. Rice of this city is busy preparing plans for a proposed new theatre on lower Broadway, to occupy the vacant lot adjoining the Mauterstock building, and near the present Orpheum theatre. The plans call for a complete fireproof building with exits from the theatre on Spring and West Pierpont streets. The theatre will have a balcony and will seat about 800 people. The front will be of brick tapestry and make an imposing appearance. There will also be office space in the building, which will be a decided addition to that section of Broadway. The survey for the new theatre was completed Thursday, and the plans have been about half completed, it is said.

Auto Accident Led to Arrest

Edward Smith, Alleged to Have Driven Car That Collided With Another Saturday, Injuring Several Highland People.

Edward Smith, who resides downtown, was arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schrick in police court this morning, charged with the police department with disappearing from the scene of an accident at the entrance to the city on Abel street, late Saturday afternoon which resulted in injuries to three women and a baby. Smith was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, and entered a plea of not guilty.

At the request of Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, the testimony of John S. Starrett of Brooklyn, whose Ford sedan collided with the Studebaker of Dr. Meyer Grollman of Brooklyn, was taken this morning, and the hearing was then adjourned to July 15. Mr. Starrett was unable to return to Kingston at the adjourned day, it was stated. Mr. Starrett said that he was driving out of the city in his Ford sedan at the time of the collision. In the car with him was his mother, Mrs. Maud L. Starrett; his sister, Mrs. P. Schaefer of Highland, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lorin Schanz; and the sister's baby, Jean Schanz. The three women were out and bruised and had their injuries dressed at the Kingston City Hospital. The baby was also cut on top of the head.

As Mr. Starrett approached the welcome arch on Abel street he noticed a blockade of cars on the opposite side of the road. He learned later there had been a collision there. As he was about to pass through the arch, the Studebaker came from behind the blockade, and as there was not room enough to pass, the Ford sedan struck the Studebaker about in the center of the running board. The front end of the Ford was badly damaged.

Mr. Starrett said that after the accident the driver of the Studebaker had disappeared. He was unable to identify Smith in court as the driver of the Studebaker.

According to an affidavit furnished the police by Dr. Grollman, he had stopped earlier in the afternoon at the store of Edwin Cashin on the Strand and asked if he could find a man to drive his car to Tannersville. One Edward Smith was recommended and engaged. To see if he was a careful driver, Dr. Grollman said he had him drive to Greenkill Park before starting for Tannersville. It was on the way back from Greenkill that the collision occurred.

SPECIAL MEETING OF W. C. T. U. ON WEDNESDAY.

An important meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Wednesday, July 9, in the Sunday school room of the St. James M. E. Church in the interest of "Good Fellowship." Morning session beginning at 10 o'clock and afternoon session at 2 o'clock. Prominent, interesting well versed along this particular line will make addresses. Members of the W. C. T. U. are especially requested to attend both morning and afternoon sessions. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public. The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Taylor, state W. C. T. U. superintendent of good citizenship. Mrs. Taylor has had wide experience in this work and is a woman of rare ability. An exceptional opportunity will be lost in not hearing her.

he answers the "Did you's" and "Didn't you's" accurately, they will follow such questions up with more "Why's."

Socialists Will Take LaFollette

Prepare to Endorse Candidacy of Wisconsin Senator for Presidency—He Will Choose His Running Mate.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Cleveland, O., July 7.—Another national political organization—the Socialist party—prepared today to endorse the independent presidential candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin.

Already a special committee of 15 has decided to recommend to the convention meeting here, that the party should follow the action of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, in supporting the militant Wisconsin senator in his drive for the White House.

The report was ready to submit to the convention during the day and action was expected immediately.

Hillquit Favors LaFollette.

Some members of the convention, particularly those who wanted to place a new third party in the field this year, were displeased with the committee's recommendation, preferring to have the party set up independent candidates of its own choice. The leaders of the convention, headed by Morris Hillquit, New York, felt, however, that the politically expedient thing to do was to unite behind LaFollette, and attempt later to get the third party, to which the Conference for Progressive Political Action also pledged itself after November's elections.

"There will be no serious trouble following the convention to endorse LaFollette," Hillquit declared. "Some of the members would prefer a different candidate but most of us feel we can best advance our aims by throwing the Socialist's party's 1,000,000 votes to him this fall."

Expect Debs to Approve.

Eugene Debs, many times presidential candidate of the Socialists, who is now in a sanitarium, will approve the convention's stand on LaFollette, Hillquit thought.

LaFollette to Choose Mate.

Inasmuch as the national committee of the Conference of Progressive Political Action set July 18 as the day to meet LaFollette in Washington and select a vice-presidential running mate, the Socialists, who are to be represented upon the committee by Hillquit, decided tentatively not to name a vice-presidential candidate but to await LaFollette's choice. For this post, Houston Thompson, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, was in the same high favor with the Socialists as he was with the conference.

Other men, particularly Senators Wheeler of Montana, Norris of Nebraska, and Brookhart of Iowa, and Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Representative George Hudington of Alabama and Peter Witt, Cleveland city councilman, also had supporters.

Although planning to endorse LaFollette, the convention was working on a platform of its own writing. It will practically coincide, however, with the so-called "Wisconsin platform" of LaFollette and the "program of Progressive political action" adopted by the conference.

The convention closes tomorrow.

Mayor Daniel Hoan, of Milwaukee, is temporary chairman of the convention and Miss Bertha Hale White of Chicago secretary. Hillquit is chairman of the committee which decided to back LaFollette.

Find Dead Baby In Esopus Creek

The body of a baby boy about six months old, wrapped in some old newspapers, was found floating in the Esopus creek, near the Higginsville bridge this morning by three boys who fished the bundle out of the water. The boys, Norwood Osterlander, 9 years old of 54 Hurley avenue, Layton Winchell, 12 years old of 146 Downs street and William Rowe, 9 years old of 84 Hurley avenue, were playing along the shore when they spied the bundle. When the bundle was unwrapped the greyness and was made. Colonel W. Norman Conner was notified and accompanied by Dr. H. A. Follette made an investigation. Dr. Follette was of the opinion that the baby had been thrown into the water while alive. The bundle was floating in the creek near where the carnival shows are held. The body is that of a white baby. The sheriff's office, district attorney and police department were notified of the find.

SLERP RETURNS TO DUTY IN WASHINGTON

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, July 8.—C. Bascom SlERP, who has been in Cincinnati for the past three weeks, returned to the White House today to resume his duties as secretary to President Coolidge.

SlERP's absence has had a quieting effect on the row that broke out during and since the Cleveland convention between elements in the Republican party represented by himself and William M. Butler, chairman of Republican national committee.

As soon as he reached here SlERP went to Walter Reed hospital, where the president is at the bedside of his son, Calvin, Jr.

McAdoo Leads But Loses Ground

Drops from 511 Votes on 78th Ballot to 433 on 81st—Leaders Trying to Boom Favorite Sons in Order to Break Deadlock.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 7.—While balloting for the presidential nomination mounted into the eighties this afternoon Democratic leaders renewed their efforts to break the deadlock between William G. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith by finding a compromise candidate who can poll two-thirds of the delegates.

Various movements were under way as the balloting drearily proceeded. One that attracted considerable attention was being engineered by William A. Comstock and Congressman Clancy of Michigan. They arranged a meeting for later in the afternoon to be attended by delegates from their own state, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Massachusetts, Vermont, and a few other states at which efforts will be made to agree upon a candidate who will receive the support of these states. The success of this movement is considered somewhat doubtful.

At the same time several senators convinced that something "has to be done" were going around the Garden trying to lineup support for a ticket of John W. Davis and Thomas J. Walsh or Senator Joe T. Robinson.

All these movements were going around the Garden at the same time as the balloting went on. There was no concerted move in any direction and by two o'clock it appeared that the convention was in a fair way to go on indefinitely.

Tom Taggart, Josephus Daniels, Homer S. Cummings and several other leaders continued their conferences in the room under the speakers' platform but nothing came of these conversations up to mid-afternoon.

After the 79th ballot, time was taken out while J. Henry Goeke of Ohio, presented a tribute to Governor Campbell, head of the Ohio delegation, who he said was today celebrating his 51st birthday anniversary.

Ed M. Seamans of Oklahoma City, who offered a resolution Saturday to drop the low candidate on each ballot until only two were left to fight it out came to bat with another resolution just before the 80th ballot started.

He said that whereas there was apparent deadlock in this convention, and that Democratic chances of success were being endangered, he proposed that delegates on the next ballot (80th) vote only "on the two highest candidates."

J. J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn objected to the unanimous consent asked by Seamans and Walsh ordered a vote. The resolution was howled down with only a small number voting for it.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 7.—No agreement reached and no agreement in sight, the Democratic National Convention today resumed balloting in quest of a presidential candidate, starting in with the 78th, in which there was little change from its scores of predecessors.

The only departure of the 78th ballot was a split in the Virginia delegation which had been voting 24 for Carter Glass on 77 ballots. On the 78th Virginia voted 14 for Glass, 10 for McAdoo, giving the McAdoo cohorts a thrill.

The McAdoo gain in this respect, however, was offset by Smith gains in Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and scattering.

Missouri Must Be Shown.

While the 78th ballot was in progress Missouri was polling and it was decided to leave McAdoo starting with the 80th ballot unless he showed something prior to that time. The sentiment was to get for Ralston or Robinson.

Prepared for anything but apparently doubtful that anything short of a party split can break the deadlock which has gripped them tightly for two weeks, the delegates returned wearily to Madison Square Garden and started on their third week of this record breaking unprecedented political gathering.

All Plans Have Same Trouble. Many of them came with their pockets bulging with resolutions designed to solve the situation in which the convention has entangled itself.

Almost everybody had a "plan" but the trouble was that all of them tread on somebody's toes—the same trouble experienced by the leaders in their herculean efforts to get together over the week end.

The Garden was hot and sticky and that did not add to the comfort of the tired delegates or to their peace of mind.

Bryan's Placid Comment. William Jennings Bryan was one of the early arrivals. He came in promptly at 11 o'clock and settled himself with a huge palm leaf fan in his seat in the Florida section and started fanning vigorously.

"It doesn't look to me like the deadlock will end today," he commented placidly between sweeps of his big fan. "The only thing I am sure of is that the convention is day nearer adjournment than it was Saturday. That is true only because we must adjourn before election."

New York Still Split.

The New York delegation held a caucus just before coming to the Garden and decided to vote as it has voted for dozens of futile ballots—88 for Smith and 2 for McAdoo.

Convention Starts at 11:25 a. m.

It was 11:25 when Chairman Walsh stopped the milling and conversation on the floor by rapping with the gavel.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. William L. Phillips, assistant rector of the Little Church Around the Corner. Like the score of black frocked ecclesiastics that have preceded him, he asked that divinity might guide the deliberation of the delegates.

Sympathy For President And Wife.

When the prayer was concluded, Charles R. Wilson, a delegate from Huntington, W. Va., offered a resolution expressing the convention's sympathy for the president and Mrs. Coolidge on account of the serious illness of their son, Calvin, Jr. It was adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

Walsh Submits Conference Report.

This accomplished, Walsh submitted his report on the result of Sunday's abortive conference. Walsh said that various suggestions had been considered by the conference "leading to no unanimous agreements." The reading clerk then read the resolution signed by the representatives of the 15 candidates, all except McAdoo, releasing all delegates from any instructions, pledges or other ties.

Bryan Prepares For Action.

While the clerk was reading Walsh's report Bryan left his seat in the Florida delegation and moved to the speakers' platform. It was said he was planning to make a speech.

McAdoo's letter, declining to join with his 15 rivals in a general release of delegates, was then read, together with the proposition of his own that he submitted to Chairman Walsh and which was promptly turned down by the 15.

The delegates already had digested all this from the newspapers but they listened wearily and in comparative quiet.

Walsh made no recommendations. He left the report squarely up to the delegates.

Delegates Who "Want To Know."

Gavin McNab, a delegate from California, interrupted to inquire the difference between "instructions" and the operation of the unit rule. John Davis of Texas wanted to know if it is true David Houston has released the delegates voting for him. Houston's name was signed to the report. He has no delegates and has received no votes. There was a laugh at this.

Wouldn't Listen to Bryan.

J. Bruce Kremer, one of the McAdoo managers, introduced a resolution proposing that the McAdoo proposal and the proposal of the 15 both be submitted to the rules committee. There were applause and hoos at this.

Kremer's proposition would throw the responsibility for a change of rule on the rules committee of the convention which the McAdoo managers claimed a week ago was controlled by McAdoo people.

Bryan tried to get the floor at this point but Walsh motioned him down. Newton D. Baker of Ohio, wanted to know whether such a report of the rules committee would have to be adopted by a majority or two-thirds vote of the convention. He was informed a majority could adopt such a report of the rules committee.

Delegates Want More Ballots.

Kremer's resolution was voted down by a viva voce vote, leading to shouts from the McAdoo people for a roll call.

"A roll call," said Walsh, plainly out of temper as the "noes" had a by an overwhelming majority.

Two delegates stood up out of the 109's.

"Proceed with the 78th ballot," he ordered, and the ballot was on again.

McAdoo Alone Stands Against All Harmony

Every Other Candidate Signs Agreement Releasing Delegates from All Pledges, but Californian Insists on His Own Plan for Breaking Deadlock Whereby He Would Get Nomination.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, July 7.—The armistice that has prevailed for nearly forty-eight hours between the embittered elements of the Democratic national convention expired today and the whole fight for the presidential nomination was tossed back into the battle scarred arena at Madison Square Garden for the delegates themselves to settle.

McAdoo Against the Field.

The week end conferences which had been expected to restore the harmony shattered by two turbulent weeks of bickering and name calling, failed to achieve their mission. They resulted only in some clarification of the general mess and renewed proof that it is William G. McAdoo against the field.

Harmony Committee's Plans.

When the home hungry delegates awoke this morning they found that two propositions had been cooked up for them by the harmony committee.

1. An agreement signed by fifteen candidates, headed by Governor Al Smith and not including McAdoo, releasing their delegates from all pledges.

2. McAdoo's private plan for breaking the deadlock on his own terms, these terms embracing:

(A) Substitution of a majority nomination for the two-thirds rule.

(B) Abrogation of the unit rule.

(C) Dropping the lowest candidate on each ballot until a nomination is made, and

(D) permitting delegates who remained in the convention the vote of those who have quit the convention cold and gone home.

The first plan was agreed to by all the candidates except McAdoo. The second plan was agreed to only by McAdoo.

Harmonizers Unable to Agree.

Excessively weary after hours of wrangling in a smoke filled room, the harmonizers resolutely threw up their hands early this morning, decided to put both plans before the convention and then went to bed.

The rock upon which the conference split was that represented by the last two conditions of the McAdoo plan—dropping the lowest candidate on each ballot until a nomination is made, and permitting delegates present to cast the vote of delegates absent.

Call McAdoo Conditions "Ridiculous."

These conditions were characterized by anti-McAdoo leaders as "ridiculous." They pointed out that there is no way the convention can compel Oscar Underwood's 24 delegates to vote for McAdoo, for instance, or for permitting the delegates present to vote for the delegates absent, they just laughed at that. They knew that a considerable number of delegates have left this convention cold and gone home most of them are McAdoo's.

Canvass Sentiment for Robinson.

Simultaneously with the break up of the harmony conference, the anti-McAdoo leaders embracing the representatives of all 15 rivals, began a quiet canvass to determine if they can get together enough votes to swing the nomination to Senator Joe T. Robinson, the favorite son of Arkansas.

To do so they must break into some of the McAdoo delegations, and their ability to do this was considered problematical. They were hopeful but not confident. They think they have put the onus for breaking the deadlock on McAdoo and that this fact will help them by showing his delegates where the blame lies, but they are none too sanguine nevertheless.

McAdoo Won't Quit.

While they were engaged in this quiet canvass of sentiment, McAdoo himself was vehemently assuring these same delegates of his utter under no circumstance is he going to quit this fight.

"I will fight to my last drop of blood to win this fight against the sinister influences that are oppressing me," McAdoo said to a group of his followers. "People have come to me and begged me with tears in their eyes not to abandon this fight, and I'm not going to withdraw. I would feel like a complete traitor if I did."

Targart Still Has Hope.

The harmony conference, however, still has a breath of life in it, despite its failure to evolve a plan for breaking the deadlock pleasing to all the candidates.

"There probably will be another meeting," said Tom Taggart of Indiana, this morning. "No, I don't know when. The meeting so far has been like two fellows sparring for an opening. We said, 'Here's our plan.' The McAdoo people said, 'Here's ours.' We would not agree, but it looks to me like another offer will be made."

McAdoo May Have Other Plan.

This heightened the impression that McAdoo, realizing he is in an awkward position by alone standing out against the plan to which fifteen others have agreed, will bring forth another proposition or else modify his present one.

"The conference has by no means ended," said David L. Rockwell, McAdoo's manager. "We will probably meet again and I think there may be a new proposition submitted."

Walsh Discouraged.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, chairman of the convention, and one of the two umpires who sat in the conference, was not so sanguine.

The situation is not very promising, he said following the break-up. "It doesn't look like an amicable solution is in sight, or that any general agreement can be reached."

Bad Business, Says Brennan.

George E. Brennan of Missouri, boss who is acting for Governor Smith declared he was opposed to discarding the two-thirds rule at this time.

"Originally I was in favor of a majority nomination," said Brennan. "But they elected to fight this battle out on the two-thirds rule and with so much bitterness in the convention, now I feel it would be bad business to change it in the middle of the fight."

Delegates Tired and Broke.

In this situation the only apparent hope of obtaining a quick nomination lies in the delegates. Loud and long were the lamentations this morning when they learned the leaders had been unable to reach an agreement. They have been here two weeks and they want to go home. Their purses are low. Some of them are already empty and they are waiting home for funds.

Leaders Hope For Stampede.

With resentment and nostalgia upmost in their minds the delegates themselves may decide to take the but in their collective teeth and stampede in any direction that looks promising.

Solidify Against McAdoo.

The anti-McAdoo leaders are privately hoping they will—so long as the direction is not McAdoo. And they are more confident than ever that it won't be McAdoo.

The Californian's opposition to the terms agreed upon by his 15 rivals for ending the fight has solidified the anti-McAdoo elements as nothing else could.

McAdoo Holds Veto Power.

At the same time, however, they cannot get around the fact that if McAdoo can hold his bedrock strength he possesses a veto power in this convention that will permit of no other nomination than his own.

That was the burning question today in all the conferences and confabs about the Waldorf. "Can McAdoo, in the event of the over Sunday developments, hold his strength?" Some think he can and some think he can't. The delegates themselves hold the answer.

Anyone Except McAdoo.

Governor Smith is ready to go anywhere except to McAdoo. While he is not withdrawing in any form was not will be so long as McAdoo remains in the race, it is now plain, apparent that the New York governor will gladly throw his strength to any candidate who promises to be able to command two-thirds of the delegates to this convention.

Agree on German Indemnity

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, July 7.—Formal announcement was made by the foreign office today that Premier Ramsay MacDonald will confer with Premier Herriot of France in Paris tomorrow. It is understood that France and England have virtually reached an agreement as to the total indemnity Germany will be called upon to pay and that the terms will be revealed when the Allied reparations commission meets here next week.

Employment in State Declines

Factory Employment Shows a Further Drop of 2 Per Cent—Biggest Drop in Automobile Plants and Related Industries.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Albany, July 7.—Factory employment fell off over 2 per cent in New York from May to June. Seasonal gains set in the men's clothing and the food industries, but heavy reductions in the metals and smaller losses distributed throughout almost all the manufacturing industries caused employment to recede still farther after a drop of 7 per cent between March and May. This statement was issued today by Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag, of the state department of labor.

Out of 55 manufacturing divisions in the state, 12 divisions showed an increase in employment. All but 3 of these were seasonal and these 3 were partial gains following heavy reductions in the two preceding months. The elements in the situation are significantly illustrated by the contrast between New York city and up-state. Almost all the up-state districts showed very heavy reductions, with the sharpest drop coming in the automobile plants and in the related industries among the metals and even extending to the textile plants making automobile materials. At the same time, however, practically all the other industries felt a slight slowing down. The situation is further emphasized by the fact that the only up-state city where employment did not go lower was Rochester. That, like New York city, has a large part of the men's clothing industry and almost no automobile manufacture. In New York city the drop was about half as much as in the rest of the state. In Rochester only, there was a slight gain.

Other significant tendencies were the slight falling off in the manufacture of building material, a serious reduction in wood products, especially furniture and pianos, where changes are ordinarily not great, and a continuation of the recession in paper manufacturing. The chemical industries are feeling the effects of the slowing down. Carpet mills are less active, and the usually stable publishing industry has been showing evidences of a decline.

An encouraging upward tendency was noticeable in the manufacture of railroad equipment, which has been gaining slowly after very severe cuts. Over 1,000 workers were re-employed in these plants in June. Leather also turned upward.

The employment loss in New York city was not quite 2 per cent. The recovery in men's clothing and seasonal gains in the food industries were encouraging. The metal industries fell off in New York city but not so sharply as up-state.

The gain in men's clothing went over 10 per cent from May to June, but this must be set against recent heavy reductions. All the other clothing industries went decidedly down with a large falling off for the whole group. The women's industries were particularly dull. Dress and waist, cloak and suit and millinery shops and the modistes' establishments let a large proportion of their employees go. Women's underwear went lower, as did men's underwear and summer headwear.

All the related apparel industries were cutting down working forces. The shoe factories were most affected but silk mills, knitting and all similar lines showed the same falling off.

There were heavy reductions in the metals in New York city, including brass goods, sheet metal work and jewelry, but irregular gains in ship building and in electrical apparatus prevented a greater net loss for the group.

Seasonal gains in beverages making and the biscuit factories sent employment in the food industries to a higher level. The cigar and cigarette factories took on more employees.

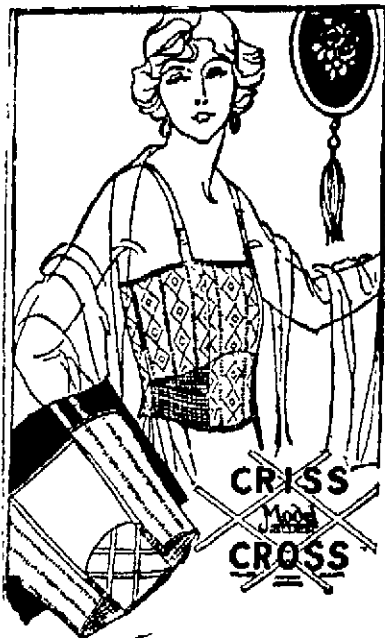

Two or three changes in the metal industries of the Buffalo district were upward. All the rest were down. The automobile industry went out in other sections of the state and carried employment in the steel mills, in metal stamping, and in castings way down. This means that thousands of workers were let go at a time when practically no plants were taking on additional workers. The other manufacturing industries, especially shoes, showed the same downward tendency, but fewer workers were affected. The seasonal increase in food products began to show in bread and biscuit making but meat packing went down a little.

Syracuse, like Buffalo, showed a drop in almost every metal working plant in the district. Some of the reductions were small but several plants dropped about a hundred employees or more. Again as in Buffalo, the automobile situation accounted for the drop not only in the automobile plants but in the steel mills, in castings and in other metal goods. A few decreases, as in the typewriter plants, were not due to the automobile situation. The situation in Syracuse, as in other cities, is aggravated by the fact that similar decreases have been taking place for several months.

The chemical and oils group of industries in this district showed a distinct falling off for the first time in the present industrial recession. Practically all the other manufacturing plants were the same way, with a quite severe drop in shoes. The upward movement was limited to a seasonal gain in food stuffs and good employment conditions in the stone and clay products group in this area.

The decline in employment went further in the two main industries of the Erie district in June. Nearly 1,000 workers were let out in the textile mills, working time was reduced and cuts in wage rates were put into effect. As in other industries and other localities no mills were taking on increased help. Another severe reduction was reported in the metals this month as in May, with all branches of the industry feeling its effect. Recovery in June

Special Demonstration of the Famous "Fade-Away" Reducing Corset

The "Fade-Away" Bust and Back Reducer

Hook back. Specially shaped front and back to conform to figure. Generously proportioned at top and bottom. Flesh colors. Sizes 36 to 50.

Reducing Corset

Miss Welch, corsetiere of "The Model Brassiere Co." will be with us beginning Monday, July 7th, demonstrating the famous "Fade-Away" Reducing Corset and Brassiere. Also the new "Criss-Cross" Brassiere.

No longer necessary to have a fleshy figure. Put on a "Fade-Away" Brassiere and take off flesh at the very points where it interferes with shapely lines. Reduces bust and back at once and massages away superfluous flesh.

The "Fade-Away" Hip and Abdomen Reducer

Made generously long so as to function completely as a reducing garment. Properly shaped at front. Provided with four garters of best grade elastic. Step-in type—laced entire length of back; adjustable as figure reduces. Flesh color. Sizes 24 to 38.

The New "Criss-Cross" Brassiere

The Unfashionable Diaphragm Bulge.

The unfashionable figure with the ill-shaped diaphragm, corrected at once with a "Criss-Cross". A graceful attractive silhouette can be obtained if a "Criss-Cross" diaphragm flattening brassiere is worn.

The specially designed cross-boned support holds the diaphragm in a straight line with absolute comfort and keeps within bounds until its disappears. See the "Criss-Cross" and you will see the reason.

Glorious Fourth At Crosspatch

Spacious Crosspatch House was the scene of a very gay Fourth of July party when about a hundred of friends gathered in the evening for dancing.

People came from Tannersville, Water, Athens, Phoenixia and Chillicothe and there were enough pretty girls for a beauty contest. The house was decorated with great many clusters of mountain laurel and the punch bowl glowed with delicious wild strawberries, enhanced by delicate sprigs of mint.

Of course there were people from Kingston and all the villages along the way to Willow. The last delegation of young people came from the church supper at Willow and announced the Crosspatch party the end of a perfect day.

The prize quadrille or square dance presented a pretty sight, something like the old-time folk dances when a score of couples joined hands and danced about and then dissolved and danced the "chase the squirrel."

Miss Wilbur and Nelson Walker were adjudged the most graceful dancers although the judges, Miss Margaret Cauld, George Lane and Vernon Wilbur, wished they had more than one prize to bestow as there were many good dancers. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Benjamin, of Athens, were awarded the waltz prize. No one appeared to claim the fox trotting prize, so that is reserved for another time. Little American flags were used as a buttonhole decoration were given as souvenirs of the patriotic holiday.

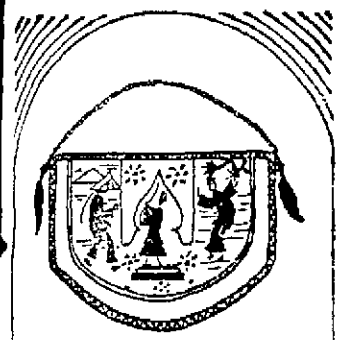

Several large parties motored up to Crosspatch on the afternoon of the holiday and enjoyed the pretty walks about the place. Among them was Mr. Hoyt, who formerly owned the land just above Crosspatch House. He remembered well, the old barn, built by Ananias Mills and which was transformed into the community house.

Mr. Van Winkle loitered about the place all day and often contributed a lot of wild strawberries for the punch. He was seen on the porch during the evening, but not even the fire of ice cream would bring him into the full glare of the light.

Perfect weather and a good road made this one of the most enjoyable parties ever held at Crosspatch, and another $25 was cleared for the road fund.

Parties will be held at intervals during the summer and a group of young people known as the Hilltop Club are considering amateur theatricals.

THE BAG

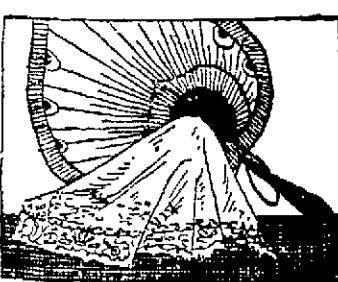

A Chinese motif, cord and tassels are the charm of this flat, silken case.

LIZARD TRIMS KID

A strikingly smart pair of shoes is made of gray kid with gray lizard trim.

THE HANDKERCHIEF

Of sheer linen, silk, georgette or lace—a dainty accessory.

COLORED KID SHOES TO MATCH THE COSTUME

The woman who understands the clever art of dressing may dare to venture forth shod in sandals shoes of colored kid. Green kid shoes may be worn with nude colored hose, and a darker green gown, a beige, colored hat and a beige and green cane. Kid shoes in bright colors should be worn to match some note of trimming in gown or accessories.

Accessories That Contribute Charm

Necklaces, Pins, Bracelets, Earrings, Pendants, Bags, Buckles, Purse.

The supply of novel ideas in bead jewelry seems inexhaustible, for new things appear almost daily. Except for formal occasions, observes a writer in the New York Times, few women now trouble to wear real jewels, or even real gold or silver, but continue to amuse themselves with trinkets of colored glass, or at best, semi-precious stones.

Since these things have been accepted seriously, artists of the best class have devoted their talents to designing necklaces and pins, earrings, pendants, bracelets and buckles of attraction. The number of pretty things one finds is most diverting. From time to time the specialty shops feature some particular style and color, and there is established instantly a vogue for that particular novelty. Jade, probably, has had the greatest popularity, and is still the fad with many women. The really smart ornaments now are made of the white jade—a pale green-gray that is lovely, and is seldom successfully imitated.

All of the agates are immensely fashionable. Lapis lazuli continues to be a favorite, though it is less fine than some of the others. Rose quartz is always in style and is shown in many new designs. White, yellow and blue quartz adornments are popular. Aquamarine is enchanting in the necklaces, collars and bracelets set in silver or platinum, and in the big diamond-cut lavallieres.

Amber is now, as always, a passion with some who choose to be individual in dress rather than to follow the mode. Beautiful and unusual things in amber are among the more important novelties, for amber has a staple value and dignity. The latest amber necklaces are long, and the beads large. Round and oblong beads are equally good style. Likewise the clear or the cloudy amber.

In the imitation stones the color is more yellow than in the genuine, and is rather more becoming if less distinctive. Coral, the old-fashioned twig form, has had a revival, but it does not "go" so well as some other things in antique jewelry.

Amethyst has come back into style and is still much worn by some women who care especially for quaint trinkets. Tortoise shell has been fashioned into many beautiful chains and brooches and stunning carved pendants, but the taste for it is regarded as a cultivated one, somewhat moyenage, and its "audience" is limited.

The new bags, of which there are so many, are attractive. Particularly the avenue bags, generous in size and elastic, as to capacity. They are shown in expensive brocades, bits of old tapestry, rare old embroidery and needlework.

Among the sports things are shown roomy bags of cretonne lined with gay silks, with a practical clasp and handle. They should meet with the approval of every woman who shops, or goes motoring for a day, with all sorts of toilet paraphernalia to carry.

Three-Quarters Yard to Make Sewing Apron

This apron is very convenient for sewing. The divided pocket will hold needles, cotton and other materials. Taffeta or a fine sateen make up attractively. You will need three-quarters of a yard of 36-inch material. Cut the material 24 1/2 inches by 27 inches.

Taffeta or Fine Sateen Will Make Up Attractively.

Turn up a hem of 7 1/2 inches to the right side to form the pockets. Bind all edges with braid, ribbon or silk. Sew bands of the ribbon across the pocket to divide it off. Gather the top of the apron. Sew wide ribbon across the top to form the belt and strings. Finish the ends of the ribbon with braid or binding to match the rest of the apron. Applique silk or felt flowers and leaves to the pockets.

An Old Fashion Revived

Charming vanities, powder boxes, rouge holders and for the bobbed haired girl, mirrors and toy combs are reproductions of old Magyar jewelry. They are of gold filigree and are set with bright colored semi-precious stones. The shape and designs are quaint and most unusual.

Fashionable Colors

Decided emphasis is laid upon a beige tone which has a slight pinkish tinge. This is shown for rather formal frocks for town wear, while yellow still continues to be conspicuously exploited in costumes for the country and for sports.

Where They Call a Halt

"The trouble with the poets," says the Whitsett Courier, "is that they are great ones to sing about the soil, but poor ones to plow it. Show 'em the plowhandles, and straightway they have an attack of spring fever." Atlanta Constitution.

Charming Street Dress Is Made of Black Satin

This attractive black satin dress is heavily embroidered in wool of varied hues. The scarf is lined with emerald green georgette.

then what it looks like now, and what we wish it looked like, we certainly shall fall. But if we write it all down, with suggestions of the colors and combinations we wish we had chosen, we shall be able early next spring to get exactly what we want.

Make a mental picture of your sun-room, verandas, sleeping porch, bedrooms and living room—just the way you wish they looked. Try out samples of different colors and expose them to the brilliant light of a summer day. Get a half-yard each of various colors and materials and study the thing out.

Evening Dresses Made From Printed Fabrics

The Paris mid-season showings, recently completed, were noteworthy for their artistic and unusual themes, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. There were no radically different ideas, but there were an extraordinary number of novel variations based on the straight, short silhouette.

Midsummer evening dresses show deep lace flounces forming practically the whole skirt. Such dresses often include a bead embroidered bodice. When the lace is in a metal color the bodice is of metal cloth, the beads also being in a metal tone.

Molynaux favors deep ostrich trimmings on his new evening wraps. This ornamentation is either in the form of closely sheared bands or in long fringes of the skeleton type.

Printed crepe georgette dresses for evening wear have the upper half, or bodice, further adorned with bead embroidery, which follows the printed pattern in both design and coloring.

The new sports dresses in crepe show a single large revers hanging from the front of the bodice on which appears a large open-work monogram. An extremely modish sports coat is knitted on tapestry design and bordered with a stitched band of bright red serge. White velours de laine sports coats are trimmed with borders of velours-like plaid in brilliant colors.

Wide stripes and striking plaids are featured in the newest frocks for resort wear. Whether the dress be worn by a very small woman or one of more generous proportions, the pattern is invariably huge.

Arrested on Honeymoon

St. Paul, Minn.—Charged with stealing $200 from his employer to finance his honeymoon, Red Ackerson was arrested. Ackerson had been given the money to deposit in a bank, police say, but used it to pay for a honeymoon to Kansas City, Kans.

Far-Fetched Deduction

A Chicago optician deduces from spectacles that the wearer "is of nervous, perhaps neurotic tendency, rather intellectual and temperamental, and of sedentary life." This beats Sherlock Holmes.

POMPEIANS ALIVE TO VALUE OF PUBLICITY

Inscriptions on Walls Reveal Customs and Thoughts.

Let us go into one of the completely uncovered Pompeian streets. The first detail that attracts our attention is the varied decoration of the house fronts. Frescoes, caricatures, illustrated signs, drawings, inscriptions—this extraordinary imagery gives what one might call malicious eyes to every wall and a most persuasive tongue. It is evident that gayety once reigned in this popular thoroughfare, and from the variety of texts inscribed on the walls we understand that, among the passions of the epoch, politics held an important place, writes Edouard Schneider in L'Illustration, Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star).

Here women freely confess their preferences for this or that candidate for the triumvirate, edileship, decemvirate or some other public office. A number of the inscriptions are plainly of nautical origin: "Thou with the lantern, hold my ladder firmly."

Three gladiatorial notices appear on the front of a house once occupied by Trebilo Valente. "Gnaeus Alletius Nigidius Malus, at the quinquennial games, without expense to the public, will stage combats between twenty pairs of gladiators and their substitutes, Pompeius, Saviellus, Tigilius and Clodius."

The second informs us of a similar combat, adding the information that "there will be a combat with ferocious beasts and the velarium will be stretched across the amphitheater to keep off the sun."

The third, still more picturesque, invites the public to a spectacle which will be given in the amphitheater to celebrate the dedication of the public archives in the Forum of Pompeii. It tells us that Gnaeus Alletius Nigidius Malus's gladiators will fight; that there will be a procession, an animal hunt, and that the amphitheater will be protected by the valerium. One odd detail is that the man who wrote the notice has inscribed his name, Ocella, in the "o" of the word "Dedicatione" and winds the whole thing up with a salutation to his beautiful and beloved Nigra, whose likeness he has painted above the salutation.

In another place a hopeless lover laments: "Marcellus loves Proenestina and hath no relief from it." Here also is the wise advice of a moralist: "One should imitate and not envy." Another touches us as evidence of the warm friendships of the ancients: "On this spot we two have become brothers, very dear and forever."

London police rely on the laundry marks in clothing to trace criminals and identify victims of violent death. A new regulation would require all laundries to keep a register of all laundry marks and their owners. There are special men on the force who are adept in this phase of criminology.

Finest Legacy

No legacy is so rich as honesty.—Shakespeare.

Moral Effect

It was at the end of the third race and the bookmakers had been doing very badly. Having paid out practically all he had, one bookie found himself confronted by a hefty-looking individual, who presented a demand for payment of 5 to 1 in tenners, and just behind this individual was another little man to whom the bookie's liabilities amounted to more than $100. The bookie jumped down and rushed at the bigger fellow:

"I'll see you hanged first!" And with that he hit the claimant a terrific blow which stretched him out.

"An", now, what do you want?" he yelled, turning to the meek man.

"I—I", spluttered the little chap, as he slipped his ticket back into his pocket. "I—I only came up to say that I thought it served that other chap jolly well right!"

Step on It

Kathryn, aged four, was enjoying her first big trip with her parents. After traveling by automobile, train and boat, they arrived on a Sunday at Mackinaw Island. Her parents decided to go to the little white Mission church to rest and meditate. Kathryn was restless and fidgety. The minister mounted the steps of the pulpit, then stood lost in thought for a moment, as he looked over the waiting congregation. A small impatient voice broke the deathlike silence with this question:

"Mother, what's the matter with the engine? Why don't we start?"

Plant Bankhead Highway

The soldier dead of Jefferson county, Alabama, will be honored by the planting of 800 trees along the Bankhead highway. The trees will be water oaks, and each marked with a tablet. The American Tree association of Washington, D. C., says this planting at Birmingham will be but a starter for the highway's beautification plans. The association sends Tree day programs and tree-planting suggestions to all organizations planting trees.

Canadian Farms

The number of occupied farms in Canada has increased from 511,073 in 1911 to 711,090 in 1921, according to an agricultural census bulletin recently issued. The acreage of occupied farms has increased from 63,422,838 in 1901 to 106,668,715 in 1911 and 140,887,003 acres in 1921. In 1921 there were 68,902 more farms of 200 acres than in 1911, or an increase of 47.60 per cent.

Traced by Laundry Marks

London police rely on the laundry marks in clothing to trace criminals and identify victims of violent death. A new regulation would require all laundries to keep a register of all laundry marks and their owners. There are special men on the force who are adept in this phase of criminology.

THINGS UNUSUAL

By T. T. MAXEY

INDIANA SAND DUNES

Indiana rubs elbows with Lake Michigan. On the border line the prolonged, incessant and combined laborings of such artistic elements as glaciers, water, wind and sun have produced the most scenically famous stretch of landscape in the Hoosier state—a land remote, as it were, yet within a few hours' ride of the homes of some five million people, a Nature-made park of strange formations unlike any other in our broad land.

A dune is a hill or ridge of sand which has been piled up by the wind. Here, the unbelievably large quantities of sand—the plaything of the wind—have been blown and whirled into countless forms and shapes—hills, mounds, peaks, domes and ridges in wave-like array—some approximately 200 feet high.

Due to the antics of the wind, the architecture of the dune region is constantly changing. Sometimes charges occur with surprising rapidity and sometimes with dogged slowness. There are two kinds of dunes—live and dead. Live dunes travel, dead dunes are motionless, although their shape may change.

Live dunes overtake and sometimes completely cover up trees, buildings and other objects which are in their path—the sand-submerged object coming out from under the other side of the dune as it moves on. Dead dunes usually become such because of a foliage growth which binds the sand and prevents disturbance. Thus Nature produces a paradoxical situation in that the dead dunes are those on which the foliage flourishes, whereas the live dunes are devoid of plant life.

This "dune" region is rich in Indian lore. Mounds built by the so-called Mound Builders centuries ago are occasionally met with. It was also the haunt of the red men and the pioneers. Some of their trails can still be traced. The beauty of the flowers has made the region famous. As if a meeting place for flowerdom, the sassafras from the South, the trailing arbutus from the North, the beach pea from the East and the cactus from the West meet here on a common ground.

Animal life is rather abundant. Opossum and raccoon inhabit the woods. Mink are found in the streams. Muskrat, skunk, squirrel and rabbit also live here. The variety of bird life is also surprising and said to be the equal of that of any place in America.

Atoms in the Sun

In a "dwarf star" like the sun, suggests Professor Eddington, colliding atoms may destroy each other, thus liberating the energy locked up in them, so that the interior of such stars gets hotter, while their mass becomes smaller.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 7, 1924.

Though all England has long seemed feverishly eager to see him wed and become a father, the Prince of Wales was still a bachelor on his 30th birthday. One would think the burdened taxpayers would be content to give him time, for the more time the fewer the royal scions they will be called on to finance.

A judge in a Children's Court in New York has handed down the opinion that when parents disagree it is a child's duty to "mind" his mother, presumably on the principle that, though the father is the head of the house, the mother is general manager of the household and more closely associated with the children.

A young man returning from his vacation in a motor car was ordered to halt in the dark near Wilmington, Delaware, and, thinking he was beset by bandits, he fired his revolver and tried to back away. Then the prohibition officers who had ordered the halt returned his fire and he was shot to death in his car, which did not contain even a spoonful of liquor. Under the circumstances it is bound to be widely asked what right have enforcement officers to assume without proof of any sort that an innocent motorist is a bootlegger transporting illegal goods.

THE KLAN-MADE ISSUE.

Both the Republican and Democratic platforms, on the subject of the established principle of religious liberty, are sound as far as they go, but in each case the declaration is in general terms, without mention of the cause of disturbance, without naming the secret organization which at this late day ignores the old principle and undertakes to prescribe one form of religion in the United States, to all appearances believing that it has both the power and the right to do so. Obviously it has no right, but the matter for concern is that its power and influence appear to be growing apace. Several Democratic Senators are said to have gone to their party's committee on resolutions and declared that they could not possibly be re-elected if they and their party openly condemned the Ku Klux Klan by name. This admission that in some States the Klan is already more powerful than parties and candidates is said to have been accompanied by the urgent request that a political issue be not made of the matter.

Of course, this was asking convention officers not to do what the Klan itself has long since done. The Klan is in politics, not openly but with determination, and whatever it elects to forward inevitably becomes a political issue. Officially it took no part in the debate of the Democrats. No man stood up with the admission that he was a member and spoke in defense of the organization. The Klan's methods are not of the open. Judged by the conditions, its aim is to control through its influence over politicians, employing threats at need. The Klan itself has attacked the principle of religious liberty and made it a political issue. The opposition has not made the issue. Its object is to prevent such an issue, to take it out of politics, where it has been placed by the revolutionary movement of a secret organization. The opponents of the Klan merely stand for a fundamental American principle, voiced by the Constitution itself and supported for more than a century and a quarter by both American sentiment and practice.

The situation in Italy, which is now despotically governed by Mussolini and his lawless supporters, presents an instructive example of what may follow a determination to rule by extra-constitutional means. Just as the Ku Klux Klan apparently aims to do, the Italian revolutionaries have succeeded in dominating parties, the crown and the government itself. According to Signor Ferrero, writing in the New York World, the recent elections in Italy were "made," free speech, free press and the use of communicating systems being prohibited to all parties except the Fascisti. The voters were terrorized. Brute force was employed to prevent both campaigning and the casting of votes unfriendly to Mussolini. "The beatings, expulsions, threats, kidnappings of opposition candidates and their friends and supporters were beyond counting." In a word Italy was Kluxed. Probably no such open and extreme violence is contemplated by the leaders of the American Klan, but their ambition for political domination has been made abundantly clear and the evidence tends to show that they have already achieved it in some of the States. If they have not created a political issue of far-reaching importance, this country has never known one.

A FATHERLESS BOY.

I watched a newsboy's boxing bout with interest recently.
The Lion's Club were helping the boys to raise money for their summer camp.

This bout was for boys of eighty pounds.

In the first round one lad made a most determined onslaught upon the other in the old fashioned back lot fashion.

The other lad, very green, kept himself well covered up, but did not attempt to do any leading himself until the round was nearly over, when he apparently "came to himself" and began to put his left hand into his opponent's face, exactly in the manner in which it had been taught him.

However, he was hopelessly outclassed in the first round.

In the second round his opponent tore into him again for the first few seconds, but this time our lad began to push his left into his face, and he began to slow up, making the second round even.

In the third round our lad went right into him with his left lead and also used his right occasionally, with the result that he won the fight easily.

I was naturally pleased to see a boy so green stay through the first onslaught, and finally win out.

But my pleasure expanded into great joy indeed, when the leader of the newsboys came to me and said: "That was worth all the time and trouble I've had with this tournament."

Why? I asked.

"Well, the green boy who just won that bout had never even seen a boxing bout up to three weeks ago. His mother sent him down to the club with a note, asking me to teach her boy to box, because his father was dead, and she wanted him to be able to take his own part with the other boys, and to defend himself whenever it was necessary. He did exactly what I told him in the few lessons he had. Just to be able to guard himself and use the first thing in boxing, a left hand lead."

I just thought what a wise far-sighted mother that fatherless boy had. She realized that making his way in the world of boys would teach him to make his way later in the world of men.

His obedience to the directions of his boxing teacher in those three short weeks of lessons, reflected that same mother's training.

Forced to Shoe Bulls

Some Arizona cattlemen are providing their bulls with shoes to protect their feet from the rough rocks of the mountain ranges. The United States Department of Agriculture reports that the shoes are similar to those worn by oxen used for road work.

Cattlemen say that heavy bulls brought to Arizona from the soft ground of the Middle West are slow to get their feet hardened to the rocky slopes on much of the Arizona range, with the result that the animals stay around the waterholes in the valleys and get little to eat. The result is the breeding of weak cows, which also remain near the water. Sometimes the bulls get up on the flat hilltops and refuse to come down over the rocky sides to water. Shoeing the bulls helps to solve the dilemma.

Dad's Occupation

Jessie and Adeline are the five-year-old twins of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stout of Paoli. Like most girls of that age they are very observing, but unlike many children they sit quietly by while their elders are talking.

At a funeral recently where the children were present they listened attentively to the discussion of hearse, mourners and pallbearers, missing none of the details.
At the close of the talk, however, Jessie, or perhaps it was Adeline (peep look so much alike) said: "My daddy goes to nearly all the funerals. He hauls the mulberries."—Indianapolis News.

ANNA BOBAR

John Bobar, a 15-year-old Yonkers, N. Y., boy, was deeply religious. He stripped life of fun. When his daily task ended he sat down with Bible to find that salvation held up to him by the priest of the Little Roman Orthodox Church he attended. His sister Anna is only 14. When the boy saw her in cheap silk dresses, with silk stockings and when lips deeply carmined, he thought it the brand of damnation. She spent 15 cents for a magazine that displayed on its cover a wicked girl. He tore it from her as "an instrument of the devil." Her Russian mother could not patch up the quarrel. The girl was a loaf of bread when the brother repeated she was "bad" and that some day he would have to kill her. She thrust the bread knife through his heart.

DELICIOUS AND NUTRITIOUS HOT WEATHER RECIPES

by M. Schmitt

FOOD AUTHORITY ON NUTRITION

When in Doubt Serve These Recipes

RUSSIAN VEGETABLE SALAD

ONE cup peas, 1 cup carrots, 1 cup diced, 1 cup turnips, diced, 1 cup string beans in ¼-inch pieces, French dressing, boiled salad dressing. Cook each vegetable separately and drain. Marinate each with French dressing; arrange in 4 sections on a dish upon a bed of lettuce. Macaroni may be used in place of turnips, or a combination of any two of the vegetables. Add boiled dressing and put small sprigs of parsley or finely chopped whites of hard-boiled eggs and the yolks forced through a strainer, in lines, dividing sections.

ELBOW MACARONI AND STUFFED TOMATOES

A Nutritious and Satisfying Summer Dish

Put 1 package elbow macaroni in three quarts of boiling salted water, cook until tender, which will generally take about ten minutes; stir occasionally. Then place elbow macaroni in colander and shake until thoroughly drained. Never start to cook in cold or merely warm water. 6 medium tomatoes, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup grated cheese, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, parsley, ½ cup bread crumbs.

Method: Cut off tops of tomatoes; remove all seeds, drain. Melt butter, add flour, gradually add milk, stir constantly. Remove from fire, add seasoning; grated cheese; mix with 1 cup of Elbows. Fill tomatoes with mixture, cover with bread crumbs; dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven until tomatoes are cooked. Surround baked tomatoes with remainder of Elbow Macaroni, sliced hard-boiled eggs and parsley.

KOHLRABI

One quart kohlrabi, 1 teaspoonful salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 quart boiling water, 2 tablespoons fat or butter, salt and pepper. Wash, peel and cut the kohlrabi root in dice and cook in salt water until tender; cook the greens or tops in another pan of boiling water until tender; drain and chop with sharp edge of small empty baking-powder can, until very fine, in a wooden bowl; heat the butter or fat, add the flour, then the chopped greens and 1 cup of liquor from the kohlrabi root cooked in, or 1 cup soup stock; add the kohlrabi, cook all together and serve.

EGG NOODLES POINSETTIA SALAD

1 package Egg Noodles (wide); cook in boiling salted water 10 minutes. 3 sweet pickles, 1 onion, 1 stalk celery, 1 can pimientos, 2 hard-boiled eggs, 1 cup Russian dressing, ½ cup whipped cream.

Method: Cut celery fine, chop onion, mix with the cooked Egg Noodles. Make a Russian dressing—1 cup mayonnaise, 3 chopped sweet pickles, half can pimientos, 4 tablespoons Chili sauce, (½ cup whipped cream if desired). Garnish top with Poinsettia flowers, made by cutting the pimiento into strips and arrange in the form of petals, yolk of hard-boiled eggs for centers and thin strips of pickles for leaves and stems.

STUFFED GRAPEFRUIT

Cut chilled firm grapefruit in halves, remove seeds, membrane and core, leaving the pulp in its original position. Fill the center cavity with a large spoonful of grated canned pineapple and pour 2 tablespoonsful of sugar syrup over each grapefruit or powdered sugar. Chill and sprinkle with chopped pistachio nuts, candied or Maraschino cherries.

W. C. A. Senior Girls to Picnic

The girls of the senior department of the local Y. W. C. A. will enjoy a picnic on Tuesday, July 8, at 8 o'clock at "Rockhurst," by the kind invitation of Miss Van Slyke. All members of the association are invited and are requested to bring a picnic basket. The picnic is being held for the purpose of raising funds for the general arrangements of the party. It is especially urged that there be a large attendance as several matters of business will be brought up.

At a recent informal meeting the girls decided to send a delegate to the Y. W. C. A. conference for girls to be held at Camp Maquis, Maine, at the end of August, and this delegate will be chosen on Tuesday evening. Plans for a picnic on Saturday, July 12, will also be discussed. A swimming party for the girls is scheduled for Wednesday, July 10, and all interested are asked to register at the office in advance. Mrs. Childster will accompany the girls and give instruction in swimming and life saving.

Clinton Avenue School Picnic

At Forsyth Park Fourth of July Was a Success—Boys' Boat Winners' Class—Best Won Pie Eating Contest.

The annual outing and picnic of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Sunday School at Forsyth Park Friday was one of the most successful ever held. The attendance was large and one of the most interesting features was the great many small children who attended and the interest which they showed in the various games and events.

In the afternoon a musical program was given by the band, which was made up of a combination of the Salvation Army band of this city and from Poughkeepsie and New York. All of the events were run off on schedule time and in each of the contests there were a large number of winners.

The baseball game between the winners and the senior boys of the school proved to be a great disappointment for the "winners" class. By the later stages of the contest it looked as though the "winners" class would live up to the name, but during the last few innings the boys came back strong and won the game by a score of 16 to 10.

When one of the players on the "winners" team was hit with the ball and injured the game between the old men and the girls was called. The score at that time was 5 to 5. The girl who was hit on the nose by the ball was one of the stars of the team and her disability caused the game to be called at a time when the superiority of one team over the other was in the balance.

The pie eating contest was one of the most humorous affairs of the day. At the end of the contest the girls and boys who participated prepared a picture which no artist could paint. Huckleberry pie was prepared over the faces of the contestants in a most artistic manner. The contest was won by Borst.

Events were in charge of A. H. Smith, who is physical director of the church, assisted by a very efficient corps of women and men assistants.

GOT THE MONEY IN PRIZE FIGHT GAME

Somewhere in these United States there may be another woman prize fight promoter, but whether or not, the fact remains that Miss Mary Price of Huntington, W. Va., is the only one south of the Mason and Dixon line, and probably the only one who ever made any money at the game.

And at that she was working for the American Legion, and not for herself.

When the United States stepped into the World war to put over the K. O. Miss Price decided she'd get in, too. So she enlisted in the navy, and they made her a yeowoman. When she was discharged and had joined the Huntington post of the Legion they decided she was just the person needed to put over a series of contemplated boxing bouts. The post needed money for a clubhouse and Mary, who was filled with the enthusiasm usually found in a pretty miss of twenty-four, said she would go to it.

She hired the hall, and looked over the field for first-class fighters. Lightweights, she saw, made the nearest fight—nothing of the knock-down-and-drag-out character—so she put on three ten-round bouts. Johnny Martin of New York versus Patsy Haley of Cincinnati, was the main go. A scrap for the championship of West Virginia was pulled off between Mike Kearney and Freddie Dunlop. Then there was a curtain raiser. Yes, it was a good bill, and she signed them up herself.

When the evening of the fray arrived, Miss Mary, as they called her, routed out a score of her yeowomen compatriots and put them in white duck uniforms for ushers. To see that no gate-crashers got by, Miss Mary took the tickets herself.

The card was eminently satisfactory, and the thousands who attended went home completely at peace with the world. Miss Mary figured up the cash statistics and found that her post was the winner by $2,000 which went into a clubhouse fund.

She staged two other bouts and was in the midst of negotiating for a finish battle between Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Johnny Dundee, Leonard's business partner, when national headquarters of the Legion heard about her.

Forthwith the young lady was called to Indianapolis, where she assumed secretarial responsibility in the finance division. She is a Legion enthusiast, and whenever her post gets behind or needs money she's going back and put on another bout. She says so, and she ought to know.

Want Memorial Bridge Over Rivers at Cairo

Support of the American Legion for the Fulbright bill, introduced in congress to authorize construction of a memorial bridge at the juncture of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers at Cairo, Ill., has been sought. Posts in Kentucky, Missouri and Illinois have been asked for support, as plans for the bridge contemplate use of the bridge as a portion of Tri-State highway. At present there is no highway bridge across the Ohio or Mississippi rivers between Louisville, St. Louis and Memphis.

Warned

Sam, while walking in the woods late one afternoon, was surprised by a wildcat which proceeded to chase him to the top limbs of a large oak tree on the edge of a deep canyon. The wildcat was climbing as fast as Sam and soon forced him perilously near the decaying end of a long limb extending beyond the edge of the precipice. Sam decided it was time to remonstrate.

"Wile cat," he said impressively, "wilecat, does yo' make me go one inch furdah, yo' is gwine have to jump a long ways fo' yo' suppah!"—American Legion Weekly.

MOTHER AND SISTER.

SHOULD BE PROUD

F. G. HUNTINGTON, former judge advocate of Camp Travis, Texas, in an address before the Yellowstone post of the American Legion in Billings, Mont., declared that the Legion should be proud of the charge that it was suffering from virile insomnia recently made by certain politicians in Washington. The charge, he said, was made by certain people who resented the Legion's pension, for keeping awake and kicking until it got what it wanted. Mr. Huntington emphasized the fact that only through positive and definite expression of their ideas and opinions could those ideas and opinions become known, and, more important, adopted.

"This idea that individual effort and expression is futile in the effort to accomplish the things the Legion stands for is ill-considered and fallacious," Mr. Huntington declared, "for the men in Washington have their ear to the ground and take note of what people are saying."

RENEWS LEASE FOR TEXAS SANATORIUM

The American Legion sanatorium at Legon, Texas, has again been leased by the United States Veterans' bureau for a term of years. This fact apparently has little meaning, but the truth is, that by the acceptance of this institution the bureau is provided with one of the most adequately equipped and best adapted institutions in the nation.

The sanatorium is near Kerrville, Tex., where it was built mainly through the activity of the American Legion of the Long Star state. The official station is now designated as "Legion," having received this name from the Post Office department.

Four years ago a construction wagon could not mount the hill on the present site of this hospital until brush had been chopped away. Today there stands one of the handsomest hospitals in the country. It was started primarily for World War disabled. The Roosevelt American Legion hospital, near Battle Creek, Mich., is the only other which was erected by veterans for the veterans.

But there was a specific reason for building this Texas hospital. Many soldiers contracted tuberculosis during the World war and it was erected for their care. The money for the building was raised by popular subscription and the project became one nearest the hearts of Texas citizens. A site was donated by the public-spirited citizens of Kerrville, approximating 800 acres. By the end of 1920, the power and subsistence buildings had been erected and two one-story ward buildings were well under way. But the country was hard hit in return to normalcy and the financial depression stopped all work. Many pledges remained unpaid, so the Legion sought the aid of the Benevolent War Risk Society of Texas, in the hope that the people would complete the projected buildings.

In the early part of 1921, the state legislature came to the aid of the Legionnaires and $1,500,000 was appropriated for erection of a 600 bed hospital where the Legion's work had begun. The Legion then donated its entire holdings to the state.

The administration building, having a ground area of 58 by 94 feet, is one of the handsomest buildings of the lot, a beautiful piece of brick work, finished with cut stone from the quarries of the site. The nurses' home is another of the showy buildings of the little city on a hill. The brick dormitories, of which there are eight, five of two stories; added to these are the two original stucco dormitories, making ten buildings in all. The buildings are designed so that each patient has a private room, with every modern convenience, and each of the ward buildings has its screened porch and sun parlor. The interiors of these buildings are finished in white enamel and tile, with carpeting of battleship linoleum.

The infirmary is the largest and most attractive building of the group. It is 140 by 235 feet and is two stories high. It is designed as an infirmary for the treatment of bedridden patients, and is equipped with everything conceivable for the successful treatment of such patients.

One of the most important pieces of construction in the whole scheme is the concrete and steel water tower. This structure stands 65 feet in height and is surmounted by a concrete tank 28 feet 8 inches in diameter and 29 feet in height. The capacity is approximately 100,000 gallons.

Other buildings are the vocational therapy building, garage, four junior officers' duplex cottages, storehouse, warehouse, oil pumphouse, fuel oil storage tanks, incinerator, sewage plant, laundry, powerhouse, dormitories and superintendent's home. The cost of the entire institution was $1,850,000.

Legion Officials Protest

The fight of the American Legion in Massachusetts to obtain veteran preference in civil service employment is being widely discussed in that state. Protest has been made by department officials over the appointment of a woman as attendance officer for Boston schools over the heads of 30 veterans on the list.

Humorous

"Isn't a lawsuit involving a patent right about the dullest thing imaginable?" asked one court fan of another. "Not always," was the reply. "I attended a case not long ago that was really funny. A tall lawyer named Short was reading a 6,000-word document he called a brief!"

Husky Individuals in Days of the Georges

In an old London inn known as the Sign of the Coffee Mill Mr. E. V. Lucas found a pair of scales on which during a century and a half many notable men were weighed. Ever since the year 1765 records of illustrious and also of regal ponderosity have been kept at the place, which is in St. James street. If you want to know how much Charles Lamb weighed in 1814, writes Mr. Lucas in the "Romance of Old London," I can tell you that when he was thirty-nine years old he turned the scale in his boots at one hundred and twenty-nine pounds, much more than I was expecting. But his boots may have been heavy.

I discovered that Lord Byron, who we know was sensitive about his bulk, was weighed many times, first in 1806, when he was living at No. 8, only five doors away; then he weighed one hundred and ninety-four pounds in his boots. The realization must have distressed exceedingly one who lived in fear of embonpoint even to the extreme of drinking vinegar and generally mortifying the flesh. In 1811 when he was living at No. 8, only five doors away; then he weighed one hundred and thirty-seven and a half pounds. Tom Moore seems similarly to have decreased, for in 1807 he was one hundred and forty six pounds and in 1809 one hundred and twenty-five.

Another famous man, one who also could have had no wish to lose his figure and who will go down in history as much for his insolent question as to the identity of the prince regent—"Who's your fat friend?"—as for his fastidiousness in ties, was Beau Brummell. In 1793 Brummell stood at one hundred and seventy-two pounds in boots. In 1811 at one hundred and ninety-two pounds in boots and frock and in 1815 at one hundred and seventy-eight pounds in shoes. In 1819 the Beau had to fly from his creditors to Canada. None the less there is still one more entry, in 1822, suggesting that he was able to visit the scenes of his old triumphs again; and then he was one hundred and fifty-three pounds in boots.

As for the "fat friend," later George IV, he evidently earned the epithet. In 1791 he weighed two hundred and forty-two pounds in boots. In 1798 two hundred and twenty-four pounds "after gout," in 1800 two hundred and forty-seven pounds in hat and boots, and later that year two hundred and twenty-nine pounds "after gout." In 1803 "with gout" he weighed two hundred and eighteen pounds.

The figures help us to picture those solid men of a century ago. We can see them trotting or mincing or promading with an air, small and large, down the sunny side of St. James street to weigh themselves before dinner.—Youth's Companion.

Going Too Far

Mike and his family are blessed with lively imaginations, which is a good thing, since, what with a large brood of children, doctors' bills and things, they are not able to indulge in many luxuries.

"I saw a mighty fine sedan this afternoon, Nora," remarked Mike the other evening, "an 'I'm thinkin' I'll buy it next week. It's only $5,000!"

"I'm thinkin' ye'll have to wait a couple o' weeks, Mike darlint, for the rint's due next week."

"I'm goin' to sit on the front seat with dad!" piped up young Denny.

"No, sir, that's my place!" put in Terry, his twin, and in another moment they were deciding the question with their fists and feet.

"Here, here!" cried Nora, seizing them by their collars and shaking them vigorously. "You young rough-necks will have that sedan all scuffed up, kickin' around in it that way!"—Indianapolis Star.

Demise Not Unexpected

A little girl of Woodruff place was the owner of two goldfish, which were her most prized possessions. Several weeks ago she went out of town, but before leaving she entrusted her fish to the neighbor next door, who promised to look after them carefully. Unfortunately during the owner's absence, one of the fish died, much to the embarrassment of the neighbor.

When the family returned and the little girl learned of the death of her pet, she could hardly keep from crying. "Well, I guess it couldn't be helped; one of them was looking awfully bad when I left," she said.—Detroit News.

Veteran Razor Wielder

Abiel B. Anthony, a Burlington (Vt.) barber, has been serving customers for sixty-seven years, of which sixty have been spent in Burlington. He is now eighty-five years old, and this colored barber is believed to be the oldest one in Vermont. Among his customers have been P. T. Barnum and Grover Cleveland. When he began his tonsorial career he received $3 a week, while his customers paid 6 cents for a shave and 18 cents for a haircut. During the Civil war hair-dressing was a profitable side line, most of his customers being women.

That Much Settled

A man with a little asthmatic trouble was thinking of spending a vacation in a high altitude. But first he went to consult a famous specialist. The latter heard his story, thumped his chest a few times and then said: "I don't think I'd go."

"How much do I owe you?" asked the patient.

"Two hundred dollars."

"Here you are, doc. Now I know I can't go."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

A. MARY GRAM-BONNER

MR. MOON'S MORNING

It was almost morning. Such a beautiful clear morning as it was, and though later on in the day it would be warm, it was cool and fresh in the early hours.

Soon the sun would be up, but as yet Mr. Moon was the ruler of the sky. "Mr. Sun will be here soon," Mr. Moon said, as he looked over the sleeping villages and towns and farms and cities.

"But I will take a little peep at morning just as morning arrives."

Mr. Moon sat up in the sky—on the edge of nothing. It appeared, and soon he saw a little girl named Mahalia walking along a country road.

"Why, there is my little friend Mahalia," said Mr. Moon to himself.

But even if he had said it in a very loud tone of voice he was too far away for Mahalia to have heard him really.

He couldn't shout at her—especially as morning was coming along and he was feeling sleepy.

"Why, there is Mr. Moon," Mahalia said as she looked up at him.

"What a pretty moon you are, sitting off in the sky like that."

It was a shame, but Mr. Moon didn't hear that speech. He was almost asleep now, but he woke himself up and blinked his eyes and looked about him some more.

Mahalia was still looking at the moon.

She had been allowed to get up very early as she had wanted to see the moon disappear and the sun rise for the day.

"Why, There is Mr. Moon!"

And upon one morning she had been told she could do this.

Later in the day she would probably be very sleepy. But now she felt wide awake and very cheery.

There was something so fresh and nice about the early morning.

It made her feel so like doing things—why, she knew she could do anything now, she felt so strong and well and full of life.

"Oh, it is such a beautiful morning," Mahalia said.

If it had not turned out to be a beautiful morning Mahalia had planned to turn over and go to sleep and get up early on another morning.

But the night before all the signs had been for a good day following, and when Mahalia jumped out of bed as the buzzing alarm clock shrilly awakened her she could see that the day was perfect.

She gathered some flowers which were covered with dew.

And she listened to the birds as they began to awaken and to chirp and to talk over their plans for the day.

Mr. Moon up in the sky was very much pleased.

"I'm getting a little glimpse at the morning," he said, "and it is so pleasant."

"It is almost like an early morning belonging to Mr. Moon," Mahalia said. "He is up still and not many others are up."

"I think I shall call the very early morning Mr. Moon's morning time."

All through breakfast Mahalia was so gay and so happy. The flowers she had plucked were so beautiful, and Mahalia was full of the early morning and of the beauties of it, and of Mr. Moon and of Mr. Sun who had taken his place in a most magnificent fashion.

She had loved the wonderful air of the early morning. But as the day grew older Mahalia began to grow quite sleepy.

But what did it matter?

She had seen Mr. Moon's morning and had thought it very, very lovely.

GAS BUGGIES—It's Things Like This That Make Life Weary

The KITCHEN CABINET

(25, 1224, Western Newspaper Union)

All higher motives, ideals, conceptions, sentiments in a man are of no account if they do not come forward to strengthen him for the better discharge of the duties which devolve upon him in the ordinary affairs of life.—Henry Ward Beecher.

TASTY TIDBITS

It is pleasant occasionally to surprise our family with some choice dish when no company is expected. Here are a few worth while:

Banana Soup.—Select six ripe bananas, rub them through a sieve, add a pinch of salt, the grated rind of a lemon and place on the heat. When the boiling point is reached add two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch mixed smooth in a little cold milk and stir while adding to the boiling mixture. Cook for eight minutes, stirring all the while. Remove from the heat, cool, add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and serve well chilled in bouillon cups.

Parian Peas.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add a quart of green peas, mix well, then pour on enough boiling water to barely cover them. Add salt and pepper, the heart of a head of lettuce finely minced, one-half of an onion minced fine, a sprig of parsley also minced. Simmer until the peas are tender, then stir in the yolks of two well-beaten eggs. Reheat carefully, not to curdle the eggs.

Currant Pie.—Take one cupful of crushed ripe currants, one cupful of sugar, two egg yolks, a pinch of salt, two tablespoonfuls of flour and one tablespoonful of cold water. Mix all together and cook until smooth and thick. Cool and fill a baked shell. Cover with a meringue made from the two egg whites beaten stiff and three tablespoonfuls of sugar added. Put with pieces of marshmallow and brown in the oven.

Fresh Fish Chowder.—Take a two-pound fish, clean, remove the bones and cut into small-sized pieces. Prepare one-half dozen potatoes, sliced, three onions also sliced, cover with boiling water and cook all together with the fish. When all are tender season with a slice or two of fried salt pork cut into dice, add a quart of hot milk and as many milk crackers soaked in hot milk as there are people to serve. Season well and serve hot, in soup plates.

Heavy Traffic on New Paltz Road

Friday afternoon a Packard touring car and a Ford roadster owned and driven by Dominic Taglione of Harrison, New Jersey, collided near Eddyville. Both cars were proceeding along the road at a moderate rate of speed, one coming towards Kingston and the other going away from this city when a third car came in between them. The driver of the Packard car tried to avoid having an accident and headed for the ditch but in so doing he side-swiped the Ford and damaged the front end to a considerable extent. The front wheels and axle were both badly damaged and the windshield smashed. The Ford was towed into this city to Kolt's garage.

The road from New Paltz to Kingston was a continuous line of travel throughout the day and Sheriff Wells had men stationed along the road at various times during the day to guard against speeding and to keep the traffic moving.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL TRIAL.

It is one hundred and twenty-seven years ago today that the first impeachment trial in the United States congress took place. It was the trial of William Blount, United States Senator from Tennessee, who was charged with conspiring with the British to raise the Cherokee Indians against Spain in Louisiana, and to disaffect the Indians against the United States. His trial commenced December 17, 1779, and continued to January 14 of the next year. He was acquitted, eleven voting guilty, and fourteen not guilty. Since then seven other officials have been impeached by congress, five being acquitted and two found guilty.

The first man convicted in such proceedings was John Pickens, Federal Judge of the N. H. district, who had been charged with drunkenness and disregard of the terms of the statutes. His trial took place in 1803. In the following year Justice Samuel Chase of the U. S. supreme court, was impeached, but acquitted. The only president impeached Andrew Johnson, was acquitted by a single vote.

ANNE HYDE, DUCHESS OF YORK.

Anne Hyde was the eldest daughter of Lord Clarendon, and became the mother of two queens of Great Britain. She was born in 1638. During the exile of the royal family she attended her father abroad, and was appointed maid of honor to the princess of Orange, the eldest daughter of Charles the Second. She met the Duke of York when she was twenty-one and on a visit to Paris and they were betrothed in 1659, but there were many difficulties in the way of obtaining the consent of the royal family to the alliance, and they were not married until a year later. The Duchess was a very beautiful and sensible woman and lived in harmony with her husband despite his open infidelities. Before her death she became a Roman Catholic. She died in her 34th year in London.

JERUSALEM.

On July 7th, 587 B. C. historians place the date when Jerusalem with its temples, palaces and walls razed to the ground, was the scene of the carrying off into captivity of its inhabitants, and the entire Israelitic monarchy terminated after it had stood for 488 years from the accession of David. On the same date in the year 1607 the British national anthem "God Save the King" was written by Ben Jonson and composed—very appropriately—by Dr. Bull. It was first sung in Merchant Taylor's hall in London, by the choir of the Royal Chapel, the king being present.

On July 7, 1640, the inhabitants of Providence, R. I., united in forming a civil government after their own model. George Washington was appointed lieutenant-general of the American army on this date in the year 1798. One hundred and ten years ago today, July 7th, 1814, the three estates of the British realm offered public thanks in St. Paul's for the peace of Europe.

CALIFORNIA SHOWS HERE THIS WEEK

The California Shows, which are being brought here for this week by Excelsior Horse No. 4, are well known in this city due to the fact that they have been here a number of times before. The advance publicity material furnished by the carnival people states that the shows this year are up to the standard set in former years.

A free act will be given at the carnival grounds, which are located in Mutton Hollow just over the viaduct, each evening of the week.

Washing is made easy when you use La France - no rubbing - no bluing

TRY this new and better way to wash. Millions of women have found that it does away with the drudgery of wash-day, and gives whiter, cleaner clothes than ever before.

No rubbing—and no bluing when you use La France. It blues as it cleans.

Just dissolve two tablespoonfuls with your soap and see how quickly it loosens the dirt. When you have soaked or boiled the clothes with La France, the washing is practically done.

La France is not only easy on you, it's easy on your clothes. Will not injure the most delicate fabric. Use La France with any soap you like, bar, powder or flakes. Or in the washing machine. You don't have to change your method of washing to use La France. Only 10 cents a package. Order from your grocer to-day.

For ironing, use Satina. Added to the hot starch, it gives a glossy finish, keeps the iron from sticking and perfumes the clothes. La France Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia.

License for Up-State Drivers

Not Necessary Until October 1—Charles A. Harnett, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Will Announce When Licenses are Ready.

There need be no worry on the part of the up-state automobile drivers as to complying with the state-wide operator's license law before October first, according to information given out today by Charles A. Harnett after he assumed his duties as commissioner of motor vehicles.

"We have had thousands of inquiries," said Commissioner Harnett, "which seem to show that a great percentage of the up-state drivers are under the impression that they must have a license to legally operate a car under the new motor vehicle law effective July first. In this they are wrong. The law provides that the up-state operators' license is not absolutely necessary until October first."

"In taking charge of the motor vehicle bureau, I found myself confronted with the gigantic task of organizing a bureau that will have direct contact with millions of people throughout the state. This work will require weeks of diligent effort. Except in emergency cases, where licenses are urgent and will be issued, up-state drivers will render us valuable service by refraining from written inquiries relative to operators' licenses until announcement is made that we are ready to issue same."

ANOTHER PRIZE FOR FOR ANNA GASCOOL

A few days ago Miss Anna Gascool, of No. 9 Main street, who is a graduate of Kingston High School and a successful winner of seven prizes earned in that institution, received an additional prize of a modest type which was not of gold as her other prizes were, but a short letter surrounded by a fearsome and resplendent design, especially painted for her by one of the students of K. H. S., Zeeen E. Melik, in memory of her part played by her at "King Arthur's Court" on commencement night and in memory of her splendid resplendence, which were proved by her popularity in the high school as well as in the entire city of Kingston. It has been said in the high school that Mr. Melik, who beautifully decorated the walls of the stage with seven coats of armor, was so inspired with their view that he ran for his paints and brushes to sketch the entire brightly illuminated "Patriarchal" platform of this extraordinary graduation on a good sized canvas.

After the graduation was over, Mr. Melik, holding the unfinished canvas in one hand and the present in the other, said to the group of well dressed young men who came to glance at the paintings: "This one goes to that student who kept her promise based upon her strong and modest character. I am giving her this present, not because she was a student of highest average of four years, but because she was an equally high ranking student every one of those years. She in my estimation is entitled to even more than what she has received because she served, served and will serve as the most outstanding representative of Kingston High School. Her equality with these one thousand twenty-five mortal souls in his high school is remembering that of Abraham Lincoln's with his population. She therefore will irresistibly be mentioned many a time by the entire student body as much as Abraham Lincoln is mentioned now by the entire country." Then Mr. Melik pointed with the roll of paper toward the seven coats of armor on stage he painted, saying: "I hadn't the slightest idea of number of prizes Miss Gascool would receive but I accidentally happened to decorate seven large shields. Now in my view these seven mighty shields stand for the seven mighty prizes of our most ambitious and energetic student, Miss Anna Gascool."

The boys' parting concluded that Anna has produced more than "The whole school put together."

Mr. Melik's painting of the auditorium has been handed to Mr. Darron and Dr. Carroll of New York, who were present that night and who will exhibit the picture in the Woodstock Art Gallery.

Only Playing

A small boy accompanied his mother, who just "dropped in" to bear a part of the testimony in a trial at the county building. Counsel objected heatedly to one question after another put to the defendant. Finally there came a recess and counsel chatted amiably. The boy looked at them in wonder. "Ma, I thought they were mad at each other," he exclaimed.—Detroit News.

EXPLAINS WHERE MONDAY IS BORN

National Geographical Society Makes It Plain for the Puzzled.

Washington.—"Where is Monday—on Wednesday or Saturday—born?" There is a practical side to this question, a National Geographic society bulletin points out, in the cruise of American army flyers around the world.

"The traveler for only part of the way across the United States encounters our 'hour lines,' the places where he must turn his watch backward or forward one hour," the bulletin continues.

"For many years ships have sailed westward on the Pacific across a similar 'day line,' officially the International Date line, and so have jumped 24 hours into the future. They must scratch a day off their calendar instead of turning their watches an hour ahead.

"When the army flyers hurried the Date line millions who are oblivious to the sailings of ships were awaiting news of the aviators. Many folk had their first concrete intimation that two days can exist in the world at the same time—that one may read in an afternoon Washington newspaper accounts of what has already occurred on the edge of Asia the next, or Tuesday, morning.

"A moment's consideration will show why your calendar and your watch never are accurate from the standpoint of our basic time computation. That is they don't conform exactly to the earth's annual trip around the sun or the earth's daily spin on her own axis.

"Paradoxically, if everyone kept time in exact accord with the seasons and with the sunrise, such time would not be of much use. Your time would be accurate enough but nobody else's, unless he was precisely in the same longitude, would agree with you.

Your Watch Always Wrong. "If you then took a twenty-hour train from New York to Chicago you would have to indulge in considerable mathematical calculation to tell your Chicago friend what time by his watch to meet you. Even in much shorter distances where accurate timing was necessary, say in a cross-country marathon run, the time difference between the watch of the starter and that of the finisher would have to be calculated before the runners' records could be determined.

"If everybody stayed home and had only news of his own locality the hour lines would not be necessary; if everybody concerned himself only with his own continent the Date line would not be needed.

"However, many people actually are traveling around the world, many more are sending messages a half or more the way around it, and all of us are vicariously circumnavigating it in date lines of our daily newspaper.

"It is midnight on the opposite side of the globe when it is noon where you are. Suppose you are in Washington at one minute of midday on Thursday. At your antipodes, roughly Rangoon, Burma, it is one minute of midnight, Thursday. As your watch passes the noon hour in Washington it becomes one minute past midnight in Rangoon—that is, the first minute of a new day for that place.

"Now imagine yourself at Washington and consider that, by some magic means, you traveled instantaneously east to the antipodes point, at Rangoon, changing your watch one hour for every 15 degrees, because every 15 degrees marks an hour line. Should you thus travel eastward you would move the hands forward, hour by hour, until you approached Rangoon at one minute of midnight—the last minute of the day you started. The last minute of the day you started, moving your watch hands backward—that is, to eleven, ten, nine o'clock, and so on, and you would approach Rangoon at one minute after midnight—the first minute of the same day you started! You would find Rangoon in the anomalous situation of being actually entitled to two times, from the Washington point of view, 24 hours apart.

"It so happens that our time actually is based on the Greenwich meridian, and the antipodes meridian of the Greenwich longitudinal line is in the middle of the Pacific. That then becomes the logical adjustment line, and so has been designated the International Date line.

Where New Days Tick Off.

"New days are born, then, along the line in space exactly on the opposite side of the earth from the sun when the Date line passes. The first second of Monday is ticked off between the Samoan and Fiji Islands as the master clock at Greenwich ticks the first second past noon on Sunday. This is when the first second after seven o'clock Sunday morning is registered in New York, Philadelphia, and Washington after 6 a. m. in St. Louis and Chicago, and the first second after four a. m. in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"At seven o'clock Sunday evening, when Washingtonians are eating their evening meals, or at four p. m. when San Franciscans are strolling in the parks, the world is evenly divided between Sunday and Monday.

At seven o'clock Monday morning in Washington when the first hammers of the week are beginning to pound, Sunday is giving its last gasp in the middle of the Pacific ocean. An instant later, a few feet to the west, the infant Tuesday is born."

Lightning Flashing From Clothesline Kills Man

Hepler, Kan.—Charles Lattner, thirty-seven years old, a prosperous farmer living near this city, was killed when a bolt of lightning flashed from a clothesline and struck him. Lattner was on his way from his house to the barn to do the morning chores and was walking close to the line when the lightning struck, during a heavy storm.

His wife, who was standing by the kitchen window, saw him stricken. He was dead when she reached his side.

UR TOWER FIXED AS WHEN ABRAHAM SAW IT

Belshazzar's Story of It Is Coming to University of Pennsylvania Museum.

New York.—The remains of the great tower, or ziggurat, of Ur, the Chaldean in lower Mesopotamia, has been completely cleared and is today the most imposing monument in Mesopotamia, according to a report from C. Leonard Woolley, made public by the museum of the University of Pennsylvania.

By clearing the debris away from the solid masonry of 4,000 years ago, it has been possible, according to Mr. Woolley, who is in charge of the excavation for the British museum and the University of Pennsylvania, to establish what this ziggurat and its sister monument, the Tower of Babel, were like when built.

One of these towers was described by Herodotus, but this description is confusing and little exact knowledge has existed about the building before the excavating by the expedition.

Work will be resumed this fall on the ancient buildings surrounding the tower. One of these is the temple of the moon god Sin, made of the earliest type of brickwork dated about 6,000 years ago.

This and other ruins in the vicinity go back to the dawn of civilization and are among the earliest buildings known.

Meantime the objects of importance unearthed by the expedition during the last season have been shipped to London and will be divided there between the British museum and the Pennsylvania museum.

Last year coins were flipped to decide the ownership of the most important unique objects.

The objects to be divided between the two museums this year include the earliest dated stone in the world, a royal inscription of about 4100 B. C., found in a temple at Tell-El-Obeld near Ur.

There are also a number of hammered and cast copper figures, centuries older than the earliest wrought metal work previously known. Important gems and pottery will also form part of the American Institution's share, which will arrive this summer.

The great ziggurats, like the Tower of Babel, are believed to be imitations of the hills where the Sumerians worshiped their gods before they settled in the plain of Tigris and Euphrates. The ziggurat of Ur is the best preserved of these towers.

Earlier excavations disclosed inscribed clay cylinders in which Nabonidus (Belshazzar), the last king of Babylon, told how he had completed the tower left unfinished by Ur-Engur and his son, Dungi, king of Ur, at about 2300 B. C., a comparatively late date in the history of Ur, which had flourished for 2,000 years or more before.

Ur-Engur and his son, Dungi, however, antedated Abraham by 200 years, so that patriarch must have seen the tower before he left Ur. In fact, it is supposed emigrants from Ur took away with them the worship of the moon god Sin and transplanted it to Mount Sinai, thus giving Sinai its name.

Newest Snake Charmer Is Radio Receiving Set

Head Keeper John Toomey of the Bronx park zoo, New York city, is shown observing the effects of music emanating from a loud speaker upon a giant python. While the music was soft the great snake lay still and seemed pleased, but became restless and drew back when the human voice came forth from the loud speaker.

Cherry Stone in Ear

Lorain, Ohio.—For 12 years Mrs. Joseph Korda of Lorain, Ohio, had an almost continuous earache. It was never severe enough for her to consult a physician, but gradually her hearing was affected and at last she lost it entirely. Then she went to a doctor, who removed a cherry stone from one of her ears. Immediately after that her hearing returned.

Goldfish in Quarry

Martinsburg, W. Va.—A goldfish whose origin has not been accounted for was found in an abandoned quarry hole south of the city recently and is on display in a local drug store window. The fish is 14 inches long. How it came to get into a quarry hole is a mystery.

A Raveling Story

Mary Anne, just five years old, was watching the new cook make a pie. She watched her roll out the crust, fit it in the pan and then take up the knife to cut off the pieces which extended over the edge of the pan. "Oh, I want to make a little pie," she exclaimed. "Can I have the ravelings of dough you just cut off for it?"

Consumption of Butterflies

The natives of Australia consume every year millions of butterflies. These insects live largely in the mountain rocks. The natives catch them by lighting wood fires, the smoke of which suffocates them. The natives collect them in baskets, put them in the oven and, after having sifted them to get rid of the wings, make them into a sort of tart, much appreciated among connoisseurs.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

THE HOUSE OF FAME

IT IS not always those who look longingly upon the House of Fame who succeed in finding a lodging place beneath its glorious turrets and towers. Only in isolated cases do such people gain entrance to the house about which the poets sing and the ambitious gabble. And often when they arrive they discover to their dismay that the happiness they imagined would be theirs, has taken wing and swiftly flown away.

Old cure and sorrow are faithful attendants, and no soul is ever made happier by their solicitous attentions. Day and night they insist upon bowing and scraping, driving from the gilded rooms soft-treading Peace and the gentle Goddess of Sleep.

From our lowly place of view, the mountains across the valley are delectable. Their tints of violet, rose and gold beam beneficently. But when after hours and perhaps days of hard climbing we reach the towering peaks, we find them to be cold, rough and repellent.

We have gained the chilly heights and have lost the warm, inspiring colors. We are at a great altitude, far above the plain country below us, very much alone, fearing that if we make a misstep we shall fall.

A little while ago we were in the valley among the common people, sharing their joys, but now that we are in the house of fame, we hear no more the merry peals of honest laughter, nor the words of truthful tongues. We are famous but miserable. Our words, acts and emotions are taken at a wrong valuation. So we are set apart from the rest of the world and left to ourselves. We would gladly return to the simple life, but our admirers will not permit us.

When we gazed across the valley only a few years ago, Fame seemed to be decked in fine linen and purple. Now that we know it, it seems to be clad in rags, dull and lusterless, without heart or affection, separated from the world of sweet content.

Our cares in those days were few and our joys were many.

Satire on Novel Reading

Such was the popularity of novel-reading in England about the mid-Eighteenth century that it was viewed with alarm by the intellectuals and was satirized in a farce called "Polly Honeycomb," attributed to Garrick.

Mother's Cook Book

"O trust ye are in Providence, For Providence is kind. And bear ye a life's changes With a calm and tranquil mind Though pressed and hemmed on every side. His faith and ye'll win through, For like blade of grass has its own drop of dew."

SUMMERY DISHES

A SIMPLE salad, if one has a small garden spot, may be gathered fresh with dew and served with all the crispness and flavor found only in such foods served at once after gathering.

Salads of Peas and Peanuts.

Two cupsful of freshly-cooked peas, one cupful of fresh, coarsely-chopped peanuts, one-half cupful of finely-minced olives, a small stalk of celery also finely minced, adds to the salad. Mix well with boiled salad dressing and serve in nests of lettuce.

Spring Stew.

Take a pint of green peas, a few carrots cut into cubes, the same amount of tender green onions, a slice of salt pork which has been cut into cubes and fried until brown; add boiling water and cook until the vegetables are tender, using just as little water as is possible to cook without scorching. Add a little rich milk and serve well-seasoned with salt and pepper.

Onion Sandwiches.

Slice sweet, mild onions into thin slices, fry on slices of buttered bread, cover with a little salad dressing and a crisp lettuce leaf, then lay on another slice of buttered bread. Serve for Sunday night lunch with a glass of good rich milk, chilled if a warm night; hot, if cool.

Slices of cucumber dressed with salad dressing make a most delicious sandwich filling. If desired a few chopped nuts may be added to the salad dressing which will increase the food value and add to the palatability.

ROMANCE OF WORDS

"JUIJITSU"

THE word "Juijitsu" was lifted as bodily from the Japanese as the system of physical training which has been practiced in Japan for the past 2,500 years. This system includes not only constant exercise and practice, but also dieting and careful living. It is not difficult to learn and is very effective in practical use, enabling the small and comparatively weak person to cope successfully with larger and more powerful opponents.

Specifically, Juijitsu is the art of applying the physical forces so that a very slight movement will overcome the greatest possible human resistance. The Japanese have worked it out to such a degree that they utilize, not only the strength of the adept in the art itself, but the force generated by the onrush of the opposing fighter. In the majority of emergencies a thorough knowledge of juijitsu is very effective, but American college athletes have proven that football tactics more than offset this centuries-old art of physical defense.

The system was introduced into the United States in 1904 and the word itself is made up from the Japanese Jiu—meaning soft, gentle or tender—and Jitsu—a device, trick or art. The idea is that Juijitsu is the "gentle art" of meeting physical force with a quick, dexterous movement, devoid of any special strength. (© by Webster Syndicate, Inc.)

Have You This Habit?

ADDIE ADAMS

ADDIE ADAMS was the first woman in Old Town to bob her hair, and on that occasion she became Bob-haired Addie Adams. Everyone knew by reputation Miss Adams' mannish collars and ties, and her mannish tailored coats, and her hatred for men. Young Mrs. Frank Galey, however—probably because opposites attract each other—was a staunch supporter of Miss Adams on all occasions. One night Mrs. Frank announced that Addie was coming to dinner the next evening. Her husband acquiesced with extra graciousness. Then he added: "I'll get Tony Tompkins, too; I think Tony'd be just the man for Addie."

Mrs. Frank looked dubious. "You know, dear," she said, "Addie doesn't approve of men."

"That's exactly what I had in mind," answered her husband. "Tony's a woman-hater!"

All assembled the following evening. Addie glared across the table at Tony and ignored her host.

"How is Frank, Jr.?" she asked Mrs. Frank. "It's a pity he's a boy."

"I suppose it's more modern to find one's daughters interesting," laughed Mrs. Frank.

"You women who are chained to husbands must at least raise girls to carry on the cause. Woman must capture every field!" Addie opened the mannish coat she wore even to the table, and displayed a gleaming badge: "I have been sworn in as a special officer," she said. "I arrested two men today."

Here Tony interrupted, growing red and puffy as if he were going to have a stroke. "Miss Adams, you must never forget the biological fact that the brain of a woman is not so large as that of a man."

Then they were off. Addie had probably never in her life talked continuously for such a length of time to a man. For the remainder of the meal the rest of the party just listened. And after dinner when they were assembled once more in the drawing room, Addie made straight for Mr. Tompkins. There was no getting her away from him. For she had found a mutual interest to which apparently there was no end.

The following day it was reported that she had been seen taking Tony to drive, and within the week they made their party call on Mrs. Frank together. In her youth Addie had been sent to a girl's boarding school in winter and a girl's camp in summer until she was old enough to enter the woman's college from which she graduated in four years ready to attach herself body and mind to the first cause that presented. That cause was Woman. So far her audiences had been strictly feminine. And now came Tony. Addie had discovered the only cure for the habit of man-hating—a man. They were married within the month.

Flashlight Good Stocking Darner

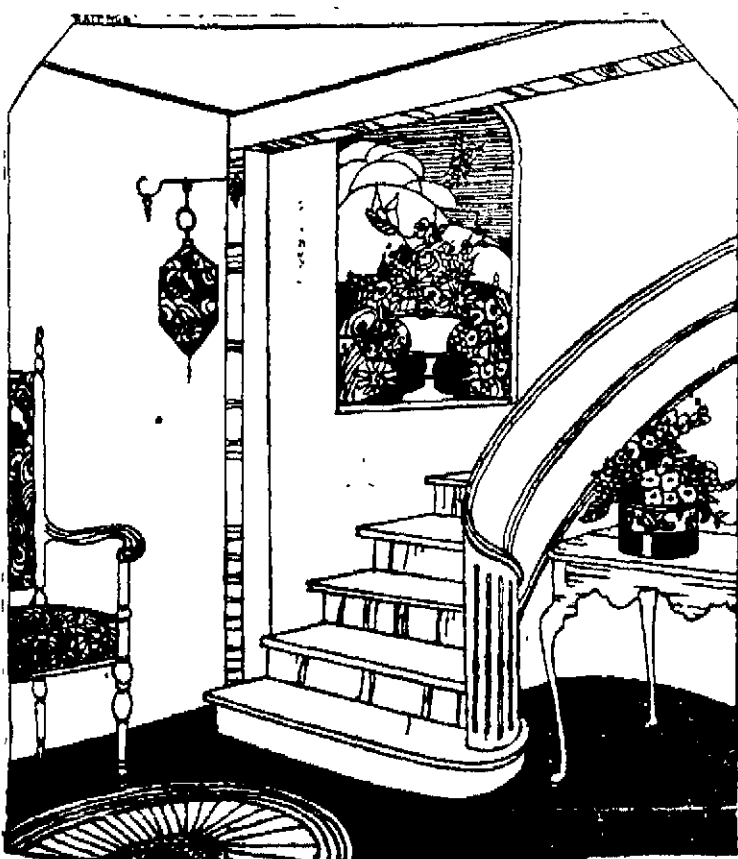

HERE is a new item for the sewing basket—a small bull's eye lens flashlight for use at night instead of a stocking darning. It is especially recommended for ladies who want to catch a run at the heel before it ruins a silk stocking. Runs, you know, are hard to nip in time. But a flashlight exposes the broken thread or a tiny seam split and permits of a neat mending job. The convex lens of a flashlight is an excellent surface over which to stretch a sock or stocking with a hole, and the light, playing up from underneath, makes the darning easy. The mender can make a better job than with the light coming from overhead. Even without an overhead light, you may darn in perfect comfort on the porch on summer evenings.

GLUE MAGIO MAKES HANDSOME DECORATIONS

Both decorative panel and jardiniere are readily made by using black main and the best quality glue with ribbons or cut-out motifs from crepe paper or silk. In the case of the panel, a tapestried effect is achieved by assembling the cut-out motifs into a picture and gluing to the main background. Satin and ribbon are glued on a buckram frame or an empty tin container to make the jardiniere.

Carrie Louise, wife of the late Dr. George W. Nash, formerly of Hurley, died in this city today. Services this evening at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time, at the chapel of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street. Interment at Roxbury, Va.

Miss Florence Pine died this morning at her home in Rosendale, aged 21 years. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Pine. Besides her parents she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Oscar Bench of Rosendale; Mrs. Marshall McCabe of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Anderson V. Ellis, north of Lafayette avenue, this city. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The funeral of DeWitt Roosa, who died early Saturday morning at his home on Fair street, will be held at the First Reformed Dutch Church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment will be private. Friends desiring to view the remains may do so on Tuesday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock. Mr. Roosa was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, St. Nicholas Society, the Yale Club and the Kingston Club.

Rabbi L. Goodman of Briggs Street, Ellenville, died suddenly from a heart disease Wednesday morning. The rabbi, who had just returned from two weeks in hospital, had been killing a sheep, when he suddenly complained of not feeling well and died almost instantly. Wood & Russell took his remains to Brooklyn the same day. Rabbi Goodman was well liked, having lived in Ellenville eighteen years. He came from Russia and is survived by his wife and five children. He was 49 years of age.

Mrs. Emma J. Cole, wife of Evas J. Cole, a respected resident of 141 Spring street, died Sunday. About a month ago deceased suffered a fractured hip, the result of a fall, and owing to her advanced age, was unable any longer to combat the shock to her nervous system. Besides her husband, two daughters and one son survive. Mrs. May Wood of this city; Mrs. Frank DeCicco of East Kingston and Anson J. Cole of New York city. Funeral from her late home Wednesday at 8:45 and 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Church with a Mass of requiem for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Augustus Hayes died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter G. Geroldick, 177 Pearl street, Sunday evening at 10 o'clock. Had he lived two hours longer he would have reached his 96th birthday. Mr. Hayes was born in the town of Shandaken and made his home there until about seven years ago when he came to Kingston to make his home with his daughter. He was in good health until about a month ago when he became enfeebled. Besides his daughter, Mrs. Geroldick, he is survived by one son, Frank Hayes, of the Hill. The funeral will be held at Pine Hill Wednesday morning, with interment in the Pine Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Agnes Payne of Kinderhook, widow of the late Lewis F. Payne, Republican political leader of Columbia county for years and former United States marshal and state superintendent of insurance, died Saturday night at her home. She moved to Kinderhook in 1923, following the death of her husband at Chatham. Mrs. Payne, who had been an invalid for several years, was attended by her sister, Martha, at her home. She was taken ill suddenly Saturday and passed away late that night. She is survived by three sisters and one brother. The funeral will be Tuesday afternoon at her residence. Burial will be at the Kinderhook cemetery.

Dr. Albert Reed, a prominent physician, died at his home in Highland Wednesday morning. He had been ill only a few days. He was born in Monticello about 63 years ago and had been a resident of Highland for the past thirty years. Dr. Reed specialized in the treatment of cancer. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, also several medical organizations, and of the Presbyterian Church. One son, Royal Reed, of Highland, and a sister and brother of Monticello, survive him. Funeral services were held Friday at the Presbyterian Church at 10 o'clock. The Rev. W. A. Dalton, pastor, conducted the service and burial was made in Sullivan county, near Monticello. There was also a Masonic service.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bullus, widow of Eugene Bullus, died at her home, corner of Warren and Park streets, Ellenville, on June 26. Funeral ser-

Heavy Traffic Over Holidays

Traffic to the mountains over the Fourth of July holidays was heavy, many taking advantage of the three day vacation to visit their favorite resorts. Although there was considerable traffic on July third it was not until the following day that the peak was reached. Many of the summer resorts in the Catskills and Shawangunks did a good business and in many instances the boarding houses were filled while others had smaller crowds.

The return to the cities began on Sunday morning and by mid-afternoon those who were not prepared to spend a longer vacation away from business were homeward bound. A very heavy traffic passed through Kingston during the day. The detour sign at the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge was removed and many tourists followed the river road to Highland instead of detouring by way of New Paltz around the construction which is in progress from the Lloyd line south to Highland. Traffic was sent through this way with the use of flags over the one-way stretch with little delay. A considerable amount of concrete has been laid and one side of the road will be completed before concreting on the other side is commenced.

Mrs. Bullus was born in Ellenville 72 years ago, the daughter of the late Henry C. Clark and his wife, Catherine. Mance, well known citizens of Ellenville. She is survived by three brothers, Joseph H. Clark of Ellenville, Charles E. Clark of Sagor, N. Y., and Frank L. Clark of Sioux City, Ia.; also by three sisters, Mrs. S. A. Palmer of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Mrs. Alice Love of New York and Mrs. John Van Horn of Ellenville.

Harrie H. Misner, wife of Mahlon Smith died at her home in Ellenville early Monday morning, after an illness of three years. Funeral services were held from the late home Wednesday afternoon, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Charles A. Dana, followed by interment in Fanteinell cemetery. Deceased was the daughter of Albert C. Misner and his wife, Elsie C. Moore, and was born in Monticello July 27, 1865. Besides her husband she leaves one son, Misner Smith, her aged mother, a sister, Mrs. John Unverzagt, and two brothers, William P. Misner of Maybrook and Albert Misner of Livingston Manor. Mrs. Smith was a good Christian woman and five years a member of the Methodist Church at Catskill and for eight years of the church in Ellenville, where she was a faithful worker, a teacher in the Sunday school and prominent in the work of the W. C. T. U. in all of which activities she will be missed.

Henry Canner, well known citizen of Ellenville, who has been in poor health for some months, died at his home on lower Warren street, Ellenville, Saturday, June 28. Funeral services were held from the late home Tuesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. S. Mairnes, followed by interment in Fanteinell cemetery with Masonic honors. Deceased was born in Sullivan county, December 12, 1852, a son of John and Caroline Sise Canner, both natives of Germany. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Josephine Thronon. Mr. Canner was a former trustee of the village of Ellenville, and was a retired miller by trade, having for years been a member of the firm of Hoyt, Canner & Co., proprietors of the Ellenville foundry. He was an active member of Wawarsing Lodge, F. & A. M., having served several years recently as tier of the lodge, Wawarsing Chapter, R. A. M., and Eastern Star. He was made a Mason in 1907.

Dance Tonight at Saugerties.

The regular Monday night dance will be held this evening at Lasher's Hall, Saugerties. These dances have become very popular lately and the large number of boarders and visitors furnish a large crowd each week. There will be moonlight dancing and other attractions. Music will be furnished by the Merry Melody Orchestra of Saugerties.

Standard Oil Lowers Prices

By Telegram to The Freeman. Pittsburgh, Pa., July 7.—The Joseph Seep Company, buyers of crude oil for the Standard Oil Company, this morning announced a decline of from 25 to 50 cents a barrel on certain grades; the new prices are:

New York Transit $3.25; Bradford District $2.25; National Transit $3; Southwestern Penn Pipe Line $3; Eureka Pipe Line $3; Buckeye Pipe $3; Cabell $1.60; Somerset Medium $1.70; Somerset Light $1.55.

Cox Arrives to Break Deadlock

By Telegram to The Freeman. Madison Square Garden, New York, July 7.—James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920, came to New York today as the "titular leader" of the party to lend his aid in breaking the deadlock in the national convention and in extricating the party from the situation which has developed in New York.

Shortly after reaching New York Governor Cox issued the following statement:

"I have come to New York at the urgent request of prominent members of the party who have expressed to me the belief that a trying emergency has arisen and that the offices of the titular leader of the Democracy should be extended with a view to bringing about harmony.

"At the outset let it be understood that I will not accept the nomination if tendered to me. I do not know whether I can be of any service but my sense of gratitude and duty tells me that I should try.

"It is unnecessary to elaborate on the need of an agreement between the delegates. Nothing will be gained by going into events or conditions that have come and gone since the convention assembled. I am not here for or against any candidate but am simply seeking to initiate and develop a purely Democratic and non-factional view out of which will come both a nomination and Democratic president."

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, July 7.—Stimulated by the buoyancy in a number of public utilities and specialties and in the northwestern railroad group, the stock market exhibited a firm tone in the forenoon trading today.

Public utilities in particular were put through some lively passes in the early dealings. West Penn. Power and American Water Works were the undisputed leaders in this section, continuing their sensational rise in active trading. West Penn jumped about 5 points to 84 1/2, while American Water Works touched 98 1/2, which price represented a gain of 5 1/2 points from the low point of the year.

The persistent buying of northwestern carriers' shares reflected the better feeling regarding the outlook of these roads. Northern Pacific and Chicago and Northwestern surpassed their top levels of the year but other railroad stocks, too, displayed great firmness with Norfolk and Western and Chesapeake and Ohio in greatest demand. Big Four registered a sensational gain of 10 points to 130.

There was ample evidence that the market for oil shares had been thoroughly liquidated. Strength was shown in Cosden.

The industrial list in general moved over a narrow but higher range. Call money renewed at 2 1/2 per cent.

Results of Semi-Pro Games

The Colonials beat the North Adams team 1 to 3 in a 14-inning game here.

The Poughkeepsie Red Sox split a double bill with the American Chain Company team of Bridgeport at Poughkeepsie.

The Boberty Silk Sox beat the Westinghouse team at Clifton, N. J. by a 19 to 3 tally.

The Kennedy All Stars of Yonkers were defeated at Middletown by the Grays, score 1 to 2. Hechs was the winning pitcher.

The Cuban Stars and Lincoln Giants broke even in a double bill at the Catholic Protective Oval.

The Farmers continued their winning streak by defeating the Philadelphia Colored Giants two games.

Cosacko beat the Tannersville team at Tannersville by a 2 to 1 tally. Hummer pitched excellent ball for the winners.

At Hudson Falls the D. and H. Generals lost to Glens Falls, 6 to 2.

At Schenectady the Chapple Johnson outfit beat the Arabian Knights of Utica, 6 to 2.

ALL STARS TO PLAY AT MILLERTON

The All Star club is going back to play at Millerton and expects to even things up. The last game resulted in the locals getting trounced in an 11-inning contest, 7-5.

The local team were to play in Hazleton, Pa. Sunday and Monday, July 6th and 7th, but Manager McCordie received a telegram Tuesday evening, saying they couldn't play Kingston this month. However, they will go out there in August to play two games. Hazleton has one of the best clubs in Philadelphia, and the local fellows will have a tough proposition when they travel there.

Williamport, now leading the New York-Penn. League has booked a game with Kingston in September. This will be another hard one as they are playing very fast ball in this league.

The All Stars will play in either Lake Mohonk or Poughkeepsie Saturday. Either Stoudt, Van Buren or Connolly will be ready for both Friday and Saturday. Stoudt will most likely twirl Friday with Chester catching.

Colonials Won 14 Inning Game

From Windsor Club on Sunday—Morgan Pitched Effectively—Robbins Led Local Hitters With Five Safeties.

The Colonial baseball team of this city won a 4-3 decision over the Windsor Club of North Adams, Massachusetts, Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds after a fourteen inning struggle. With two men out and no one on the bases in the ninth it looked as though the Colonials were in for a trimming at the hands of the Massachusetts players, but McCue and Raskin saved the day when the local third sacker found Kuhnert for a double and then went in home on Raskin's hot drive over second. In the fourteenth inning the Colonials loaded the sacks and then Coyle drove in the winning run by sending a hard drive between right and center.

"Lefty" Kuhnert was on the mound for the North Adams club and kept the Colonials well in check throughout the entire game. During the fourteen innings of play the local club found the left hander for sixteen blows, five of which were obtained by Captain Robbins of the local club. Lodestra was on the mound for the Colonials at the start of the contest but was relieved in the sixth inning by Mike Morgan who gave the local fans an exhibition of real pitching.

Windsor was the first team to score when they pushed one run across in the second inning. The Colonials also scored one tally in their half of the same inning. In the sixth inning the Massachusetts players went into a two run lead when they put two runs across. It was in this inning that Lodestra was relieved by Morgan. The Colonials added one run to their total in the eighth and then tied matters up in the ninth as related above. The local club had opportunities to score in both the tenth and thirteenth innings but it was not until the fourteenth that they managed to win the winning run over. McCue was the first man up in this inning and he started things off with a single. He was followed by Raskin who likewise came through with a single. Kuhnert then put himself in a very bad hole when he gave Flynn a walk and loaded the bases. Coyle put an end to everything when he came through with his single and allowed McCue to score the winning run.

Morgan, the Colonial pitcher, deserves a great deal of credit for the brand of pitching which he exhibited during the 1-3-13 innings that he was in the box. During this time he allowed just two hits and retired six men by the strikeout route.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The American League race tightened up when the Yankees made it four out of five from the Senators, cutting the lead of Washington to one game.

In the National League the Giants drew half a game more ahead of the Cubs when they split even in the double header with the Phillies, while the Cubs were losing to the Cardinals.

Dabe Ruth cracked out his 22nd homer of the season.

The Giants received their first shut out of the season, Jimmy Ring xcoosing the champions.

Ineffective pitching by Jackie May enabled the Pirates to score an easy 9 to 2 victory over the Reds.

The Indians went back to seventh place, when they lost to the White Sox, 9 to 6.

Danforth held Detroit to three hits and the Tigers went down to defeat before the Browns, 5 to 1.

The Braves beat Dazzy Vance in the first contest, but lost to the Dodgers in the second game.

America Expected To Lead Today

Runners and Jumpers of this Country Sure To Score Big in Track and Field Games of the Olympics—Finland Now Leads.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Columbus Stadium, July 7.—A number of the foremost athletes of the United States got into action today in the track and field games of the Olympics and American visitors expected to see the Stars and Stripes unfurled on the official flagstaff at the conclusion of the day's events. Great running and javelin throwing by the representatives from Finland put them in front with thirty points for the finals contested Sunday with Sweden in second position with eleven points and the United States third with six points. American runners and high jumpers were expected to put the United States in the lead by tonight.

Finals were contested today in the 100 metre dash; the 400 metre hurdles and the high jump and the United States was represented in each event by strong competitors. Loren Murchison, Chester Bowman, Charles Paddock and Jackson V. Scholz started for the United States in the 100 metre dash. Charles R. Brookings, G. Coard Taylor and Ivan Riley started in the hurdle race and the high jumpers were Leroy T. Brown, H. E. Osburn and Tom Poor.

The greatest interest of the day centered in the 100 metre dash in which the sensational sprinters of the United States faced Harold M. Abrahams of Great Britain. Abrahams raced to a win in his trial heat in 0-10-2-5 seconds Sunday, thus equalling the Olympic record established by Donald Lippincott of the United States, at Stockholm in 1912. Ferri of New Zealand and Coaffee of Canada were other sprinters who qualified in the 100 metre dash.

The United States fencing team defeated the Swiss seven on touches, the score being 23 to 20. Spain defeated Great Britain 11 to 5 and Italy defeated Holland 9 to 6, Portugal defeated Cuba 11 to 5.
